Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Delay Over Action in Civic Center Plan is Incomprehensible.

THE matter of securing the high school grounds and buildings for a civic center, while making some headway, is not going ahead as a proposition with as much merit as this has, should.

Quite a number of organizations have gone on record in favor of it and the Community Service of Glendale has taken the responsibility of fathering the movement. Why there should be any delay in the consummation of this ideas is beyond our comprehension. We understand that the chamber of commerce directors, while favoring the proposition, are of the opinion that nothing should be done in the matter until the sewers were assured.

We ourselves recognize that the sewer is a paramount issue, but why it should interfere with the securing of a civic center we cannot see. Sewers we must have, and a civic center we ought to have.

* * *

WHEN the proposition of buying the sanitarium site for a civic center was brought up we suggested that this be laid over, but at the same time we suggested that even if the site was sold Glendale would lose nothing as a better site for a civic center was available as soon as the people said they wanted it and we reminded them of the high school plant which has been discussed as a civic center for years.

There will undoubtedly be some opposition to this plan but the arguments can be met. After a very thorough study of the situation we can see no valid reason for the people not having a civic center at once and it need not interfere with the efficiency of either the high or grade schools of our city.

The grade schools seem to think it would be necessary for them to have the plant for use this coming year.

* * *

BY turning the High School bungalows over to them their needs could be met. The High School will also probably need the Mechanical Arts building, but this could be given them for use without interfering much with the Civic Center.

Let's forget some of these small talking points against the Civic Center, recognize its need to the community and start the machinery which will enable us to secure it.

GLENDALE AVENUE PAVING IS AGAIN BEFORE COUNCIL

Many Petitions Are to Be Presented at Meeting Tonight

The matter of selecting the paving for Glendale avenue is scheduled to come up before the Glendale city council tonight, and an interesting time is expected.

Three petitions have been presented, one for concrete, one for National and one for Warrenite.

According to Mr. Wallace, representative for Warrehite in this section, out of a total frontage of 17,551 feet in the district, 10,500 feet have signed for Warrenite. This being a majority petition the chances are that the council will decide in favor of that pavement. It is the policy of the council to act in accordance with the wishes of a majority of the property owners along any street.

FOUR SHOWS CLOSED BY THE POLICE

Plain Clothes Men Watch Operations at the Exposition

CONFERENCE IS HELD

Chief of Police Fraser Issues Statement on His Action

Four alleged illegal concessions were closed at the Industrial Exposition last night by plain clothes men who worked under the direction of Chief of Police Fraser. The places were closed between 10 and 11 o'clock. After the actions of the proprietors of these booths had been watched, they were told to turn out their lights and leave the tent.

A meeting from which the representatives of the local papers were excluded, was held in the city hall this morning to discuss this concession matter. Representatives of the chamber of commerce, the Credit Men's association, the city council, the director of the exposition and city officials were present. At this meeting the proposition was talked over and it was said by the conferees that the action of the police department was upheld. They declared later that it had been agreed that nothing but clean attractions should be admitted into the tent.

"I'll arrest every fellow who tries to pull any crooked stuff in the tent," said Chief Fraser this morning after the conference, "regardless of who he is or what he does. It is unfortunate that the Credit Men's association and the chamber of commerce are imposed upon in this manner, but regardless of who is back of the show I will do my duty as I see it.

"The organizations which are sponsoring this show and Mr. Leavitt, the manager, are honest, but the fact of the matter is they were imposed upon. Personally, I heard Mr. Leavitt tell these fellows what they could and could not do and his instructions were correct, but some of these men disregarded the instructions given them and we simply had to clean house.

"I do nt uphold gambling in any form and I do not sympathize with the fellow who follows that line of business. One man told me the other day that he lost $70.50 in the tent one night. While this fellow got what he deserved, it is my duty to try to make it impossible for him to gamble in this way.

"We found last night that the proprietor of a "blanket" booth had several helpers. When a person took a chance on the blanket, these fellows would take the rest of the tickets. Invariably one of the "assistants" would win the blanket. He would take it, walk around the tent and return it to the booth. Another fellow had chests of silver and played the same stunt, with the exception that he did not return it to the booth, but took it to a "hideout." We located this hideout and also several chests of silver.

"You can depend on it that so far as I can possibly arrange it the show at the big tent will be clean. If any crooked work goes on I'll run out the crooks."

ORATORICAL CONTEST IS WEEK'S BIG EVENT

The big event of the week for the High School is the oratorical contest of the Southern California League, to be held at South Pasadena, in which Fred Peck will compete for the honor of Glendale High. Last year the cup was won by Paul Hutchinson, and hopes run high that Fred will bring it to the school for another year.

CONSUMERS' TEST CONTEST TO END NIGHT OF JUNE 7

The Consumers' Contest is now in the fifteenth week of a most successful run, and there remains only one more week of this exciting event. It will close Thursday night, June 7, and the six winners of cash prizes will be announced as soon as it is possible to complete the count.

Beginning tomorrow the full vote will be published in each issue of the Glendale Daily Press, until the winners are announced. The vote will be entered each day, and it will be possible to ascertain just how the contestants stand every day. Of course, there will be a big rush at the close, but all votes must be in the office of the Contest Editor by Thursday night, June 7.

There are six prizes to be awarded in the main contest, and the Faultless Bread company announces in its advertisement that it will give two additional prizes in gold. There will be a hard scramble for the capital prize of $100, and just now it is impossible to even prophesy who will win. Raymond Hall, Ruth Stein, Mrs. Harpster, Mary Kirby, Robert Trowbridge, Dana Van Loon and Jim J. Rhodes are in line for the six prizes, but who will reach the top, get second or third, or even fourth prize, is one of the mysteries that will be hard to solve until the final count is made. The vote as published in today's contest page shows the standing of the contestants up to last Monday night. A wagon load of labels have come in since Monday, which have not been counted as yet, but the correct vote will appear in Friday's paper. Watch for it. Tell your friends to help you and to read the Press every day and keep posted on your score. And remember, you must gather in all the labels by Thursday night, June 7.

SCOUTS' OUTDOOR CONTESTS SET FOR SATURDAY

To Be Held at Muir Field, Burbank, at 1:30 in Afternoon

The Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district are going to hold their annual outdoor contest and field day next Saturday afternoon, June 2, on the John Muir school athletic field at Burbank. Time set for the start is 1:30.

Every troop in the district is expecting to take part and some keen sporting competition is forecasted.

The contests next Saturday initiates the first real field meet to be staged by the Verdugo Hills district council. Former meets have been more or less in the line of practice events. The results of this meet will be the acid test to find out which one of the troops actually excells in Scout work.

Eagle and Jamboree Scout Walter Wescott of Los Angeles will be the official technical judge. Several other judges will also be on hand who are in no way connected with any of the troops.

There will be nine major events run off in the order named: Attendance, inspection, friction fire lighting, international and semaphore code signaling, wall scaling, equipment race, water boiling contest and first aid race.

Five hundred post card invitations have been sent out to Scouts, Scout leaders, council members and subscribers, but these invitations do not mean that others may not attend. Everybody is heartily invited, especially parents and children. There are plenty of seats for all.

AIRMEN TO RELEASE PIGEONS ON THE WAY

C. E. Pyle of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank, and E. L. Bremlin hopped off from L. C. Brand flying field this morning in an attempt to establish a speed and altitude record from Glendale to San Diego.

They are flying a Fokker type machine, of similar design of the T-2, which recently established the non-stop transcontinental record, except the ship they are flying is a much smaller and faster type.

The machine is owned by L. C. Brand and they expect to attain a speed of over 140 miles an hour and an altitude of over 20,000 feet.

Two army racing Homer pigeons are being taken on the trip, and will be released from an altitude of over 20,000 feet, which is believed to be a record height for the release of these birds. They will be released over Oceanside and North Island, and will return to their home loft at Ross field, Arcadia.

WEBB'S TO CLOSE FOR MOVING DAY

To Re-open in the New Building on Date to Be Announced

BIG OPENING EVENT

Men's Furnishing Department to Be Undisturbed

The doors of Webb's department store on South Brand at Broadway, the oldest business house of its kind in Glendale, will close today, it was announced by the management, pending the opening of the large new store at Wilson avenue and Brand boulevard.

An elaborate opening is planned for the new store, and many new departments will be added to the present number offered. Further announcements of the opening date will be made in the Press tomorrow.

H. S. Webb, proprietor of this establishment, has been engaged in business here for six years. In October, 1922, he announced the signing of the contract for the new store building, meaning an addition of many thousands of dollars to the construction program then being launched in many parts of the city, and which has continued to gain in volume during the months intervening.

At last the new store is completed, and with a few more details pronounced ready, the word "Go" will be said, and the people of Glendale invited to attend the opening of the largest department store to be located here.

Due to the fact that the various departments have developed to such size as to entirely consume the space available at the new store, the men's furnishings department of Webb's store will remain at its present location on Brand, just south of Broadway.

A. W. TOWER NEW MEMBER OF HI BOARD

Recommendation to Fill the Vacancy Is Approved

HI PLANT DISPOSAL

Bids for Furnishings Are Filed for Future Reference

One of the important matters considered at the meeting of trustees of Glendale High held Tuesday evening was the communication from County Superintendent Keppel stating that the board's recommendation of A. W. Tower to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the annexation of Eagle Rock to Los Angeles, had been approved.

Responding to the announcement of a convention of school trustees to be held Saturday, June 2, in Millspaugh Hall of the University of California, Southern Branch, Dr. Brown was delegated to represent the board and other members said they would attend if possible.

Dr. Brown reported no news from County Counsel relative to procedure in the disposal of the present high school plant for a civic center.

Bids for chairs to seat the new auditorium were received from the C. F. Webber company, the Rucker-Fuller Desk company and the Haywood-Wakefield company. They were filed for consideration subject to the inspection and recommendations of the architects.

Three bids having been submitted for lockers together with samples, from the Durand Steel Equipment company of Aurora, Ill., and the Fred B. Dart company of St. Louis, the board voted to purchase the Durand locker now in use in the school, which has proved entirely satisfactory.

A bid from the Library Bureau for tables and chairs with which to equip the new library was received and filed for later consideration.

Realty Men Not to "Sell the Earth"

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—Real estate dealers who put signs over their place of business declaring "we sell the earth," or some other expression designed to indicate the scope of their transactions, do not fulfill the requirements of the law, according to an opinion rendered by the attorney general's office today to District Attorney W. G. Hoyle of Sonoma county.

Under the law, the opinion states the sign used by a real estate dealer must plainly state "that he is a real estate broker."

Hoyle had asked the attorney general if display of the real estate broker's license in his office complied with the law, even though his sign outside failed to mention that he was a broker.

"This requirement is not complied with," the opinion said, "by the expressions 'the land man' or 'we sell the earth' although I would say that 'realtor' or 'John Doe, real estate' are permissible."

DANGEROUS SEA OVERWHELMS MRS. DRURY

Burbank Woman Is Saved by Life Guards at Redondo Beach

[By Associated Press]

REDONDO BEACH, May 31.—What has been termed the most dangerous sea at Redondo in years, nearly cost the lives of Mrs. D. R. Drury of Burbank and Ted Combs and Addie Cherry, life guards of the Redondo bath house.

The woman, according to friends, went into the surf near Clifton Beach, about a mile south of Redondo and was caught in a rip tide which carried her out to sea and toward the north. She was powerless in the grip of the current before she shouted for help. Crowds on the beach relayed the call to the bath house and the two guards ran nearly a mile along the beach before they entered the surf.

Both well-known swimmers, Combs and Cherry found they could not combat the current with the woman, who was nearly unconscious by the time they reached her, and were forced to swim with the current toward the Pacific Electric pier, three quarters of a mile up the beach. At this point the nearly exhausted guards were able to make slight headway towards the shore against great waves breaking in all directions. Several persons on the beach rushed into the surf to their assistance and the woman and her two rescuers were reached in the nick of time.

The woman was taken to the bath house where artificial respiration had to be used to save her life.

BURBANK BUILDING SMASHES ALL OLD RECORDS FOR MAY

Total of $218,750 in Permits Are Taken Out This Month

BURBANK, May 31.—All building records for Burbank were smashed when the month of May closed with a total of $218,750 to its credit, an amount that is more than five times the total for the month of May in 1922.

Proof of the steady progress of Burbank is found in the building permits. The May building program has been mounting up on a more pretentious scale than the most optimistic booster had predicted, and today's permits capped the climax, with six permits issued, the largest of which being a permit for a beautiful large home to cost $12,000.

This residence, which is to contain nine rooms, will be a two-story frame structure, and will be located on West San Fernando boulevard. Clay Beckner is the owner. This is only one of the scores of beautiful homes to be erected in Burbank, following the building permits that have been issued during the past 30 days.

City boosters are jubilant over the new record reached and predict that June may even reach a higher mark.

WILLYS-KNIGHT WAS BRIDAL CAR OF THE TUESDAY WEDDING

The Willys-Knight Overland Agency of Glendale assisted in Cupid's work of Tuesday night at the Exposition, when Miss Nellie Butler became the wife of Lloyd Brasfield at the Pendroy booth.

This company furnished a luxurious Willys-Knight which assisted in bringing the bridal party to the Exposition grounds. A Lincoln from the Jesse Smith agency divided honors with the Willys-Knight on this occasion.

DAVIS STANDARD BREAD CO. SUPPLIES WEDDING DAINTIES

An idea of the large crowd that witnessed the wedding of Miss Nellie Butler and Roy Brasfield on Tuesday night at Pendroy's booth at the Glendale Merchants' Industrial Exposition, is gained by the fact that the Davis Standard Bread company's manager, T. T. Hagelberg, dispensed over 100 dozen macarons, 50 dozen doughnuts, 40 dozen butterroons, and 50 cakes in addition to the large 40-pound wedding cake, which was cut and distributed during the evening.

FERBER'S TO STAGE REAL WEDDING

Lonesome Bride of Mock Event Lures Couple Into the Nuptial Show

NAMES WITHHELD

Two Hearts to Beat as One on Friday Night

By JENNIE SWENSON

"Waiting at the church" was the phrase on everyone's lips when the beautiful "bride," appearing with her attendants, maid of honor, bridesmaid and flower girls, for two evenings, Saturday and Wednesday before thousands of spectators at the Glendale Merchants' Industrial Exposition. As they turned and swayed in the light, displaying the exquisite garments from Ferber's department store, they conveyed a sensation of disappointment because no bride-groom appeared.

Although the garments were as nearly perfect for the wedding ceremony as designer could make them, everyone seemed to feel that the picture was incomplete, the very essential bride-groom being among the missing. It is said by the superstitious, that the third time is the charm in any endeavor, and weddings seem to be no exception.

During all this time, Cupid has been busily at work with his bow and arrow. He aided in making the two "rehearsals" so effective that the desire has become instilled in the hearts of a certain young couple in Glendale to show the folks how this thing is done in real life. Cupid has caused the management of the exposition to be so well pleased with the two fashion revues staged by Ferber's department store, that it has requested the show be repeated Saturday evening.

The only difference between the revue Saturday evening and the previous one, will be that the bride will no longer be "waiting at the church," for a real couple has essayed to appear, taking advantage of the opportunity offered, and will be wedded Friday night by one of the prominent clergymen of the city.

Ferber's is to furnish the bride's dress and veil, and beautiful attendants, properly attired, have been secured to aid in the ceremony. An elaborate bouquet is to be supplied by the fashion show management, and numerous other gifts are in store for the happy pair.

Watch tomorrow's Glendale Daily Press for the names and further particulars.

This headline should catch the eye of 5,000 youngsters in this city. The result probably will be that beginning tomorrow the plunge at Patterson avenue park will be crowded every afternoon after school and on Saturdays.

From now on throughout the summer, Glendale residents may expect to hear something like this: "Come on, Pete, let's get Skinny and Red and Shorty an' Freckles an' Pug, an' let's go fer a swim. Gee! It's a fine day to get your feet wet! Come on, let's go!"

BOARD OF EDUCATION HAS MEETING

Approves Report of Committee on Teachers for Next Year

NO ACTION ON BIDS

The Community Service Budget Is Submitted by Tucker

At the meeting of the board of education, held Tuesday evening, the report of the teachers' committee, recommending appointees for next year, was received and approved, the program of playground work drafted by R. Ernest Tucker, director, and Val Hollister, chairman of Community Service, under the $1000 budget appropriated by the board of education was received; the board voted to accept a proposition for land to be added to the school campus of the Columbus avenue school and various other matters were considered.

No action was taken on bids submitted by contractors at the last meeting, the matter being deferred until the board receives instructions from the county counsel relative to its powers in accepting bids and also until the board shall be notified that the money from the sale of the $500,000 bond issue is available.

The teachers' committee recommended changes in salaries which will affect a few members of the teaching staff, but in general they were unable to recommend the increases they would like to make because of the continued growth of the schools constantly stretches the capacity of the budget.

The committee's report follows:

To the Glendale board of education:

The teachers' committee desires to submit the following report:

The committee recommends the following changes in the salary schedule:

1. That principals of intermediate schools be raised from $240 per month ($2280 per year) to $250 per month ($2425 per year).

2. That principals of schools having thirteen or more elementary teachers, including the principal, but not including the kindergarten teacher nor any relief teacher now working in the school, shall be raised from $220 per month ($2090 per year) to $230 per month ($2185 per year).

3. That supervisors of subjects be raised from $205 per month $1947.50 per year) to $220 per month ($2090 per year).

4. That the playground allowance be raised from $5 per month for each day per week to $7.50 per month for each day per week.

5. That the following teachers now working part time be placed on a full-time basis: Miss Mabel G. Nisbet, Mrs. Flora Hamill Fitzpatrick, James G. Baillie and Manning Alvas.

6. That an assistant be allowed in each kindergarten when it reaches an enrollment of 35, and that an afternoon session be established with the director in charge when the enrollment reaches 50.

7. That the school nurse be raised to $135 per month and her present automobile allowance in addition, and that an assistant nurse be employed at $125 per month.

The committee recommends that the present teaching force be reemployed, each teacher to be given his or her proper classification.

Your committee recommends the appointment of the following new teachers:

Alex A. Cruz, supervisor of physical training; M. E. Dunn, assistant in manual training and other subjects; Arthur W. Bennett, intermediate school teacher.

The following teachers are recommended for appointment without definite assignment at this time: Misses Beatrice Brooks, Joanna Heideman, Gladys Levy, Ruth Rider, Beatrice Sasse, Evalyn Henderson, Dorothy Sherman, Claire Robinson, Jennie Lacy, Hazel Wilder, Sarah McElroy Olin, Pearl Webster, Esther Garnet, Helen Brockett.

The committee feels that 20 additional teachers should be appointed at this time, while the above list comprises 16. Before making further recommendations the committee desires a little more time.

The committee recommends the granting of a leave of absence to Mrs. Dorothy Hunt Sullivan for the coming year and the acceptance of the resignation of Mrs. Susan Crump Killick, and the following promotions and appointments: Mrs. Ruth G. Maxon, Miss Lottie L. Chapman and Miss Faith Turling from kindergarten assistant to kindergarten director, and the appointment of Miss Myra F. Johns as kindergarten assistant.

The board also voted to increase the salaries of its three office clerks by the addition of $5 per month, to take effect August 1.

The recommendations for playground work provide for centers at

$42,000,000 TO BE SPENT BY THE UNION PACIFIC

Railroad to Finance Improvements From New Capital

OMAHA, Neb., May 31.—Forty-two million dollars will be spent by the Union Pacific this year for new equipment and improvements, according to C. R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific system, in addition to the regular routine expenses for maintenance. The improvements will be financed from new capital and not from earnings, Mr. Gray says.

The additional double-tracking will give the Union Pacific virtually a two-track line all the way from Omaha to Ogden and Salt Lake City, and considered in connection with the double track roads east of Omaha, will make a double-track from Chicago to Salt Lake City, 1515 miles, the longest stretch of double track in the United States over which solid through trains are run.

New construction in Utah opens up territories rich in iron, agriculture and scenic attractions. A line has just been completed from Delta to Fillmore, Utah, and the line from Lund to Cedar City, Utah, is in process of construction. The 1923 program of the Union Pacific contemplates an alternate main line through Boise, Idaho and a branch in the Idaho Falls district.

When the 57 all-steel passenger cars, covered by the 1923 program, are received, this will provide all-steel equipment for all main line through passenger trains. Seventy-eight freight locomotives, and nearly 5000 freight cars have been ordered for delivery in time for the next harvest, in addition to 8,630 new refrigerator cars of the Pacific Fruit Express, a company owned jointly by the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific.

"This program is entered upon," says Mr. Gray, "with a firm belief in the prosperity of the western states and a confidence that the people in the territory served by the Union Pacific will co-operate in maintaining the railroad at a point of greatest effectiveness."

PAY ASSEMBLY FOR EXPLOSION FUND TODAY

A pay assembly is being held Glendale High during roll call periods today for the benefit of the Explosion publication fund.

The members of the senior class are holding a meeting this afternoon to discuss a number of matters, one of which will probably be their "class elopement" meeting which is an annual event of the school and supposed to be a very stealthy, secret affair.

The junior class is having a meeting Friday during the first roll period.

The B-9s will meet during the second roll period.

The "G Club" will meet Friday in Room 29 during the second period.

The Girls' Athletic Club is meeting today at 4:15 in the girls' gym to discuss an excursion to the beach and several other matters, also to select the design of the club pin.

A boon companion is seldom considered a boon by the family of the man with whom he associates.

Sweet oil will remove finger marks from varnished furniture and kerosene from oiled furniture.

REAL ESTATE IS ACTIVE, BARNEY DECLARES

With Associate Fred A. Sweat, Sell $150,000 Worth in 6 Weeks

J. E. Barney, the real estate man of 131 North Brand boulevard, and Fred A. Sweat, who has been associated with Mr. Barney since the 23rd of April, have been busy inducing tourists as well as local investors to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities which are in Glendale and vicinity. As their sales records show they have sold $150,000 worth of property within the last few weeks.

A prominent Hollywood investor has been the lucky buyer of a close-in North Brand boulevard business lot, also a business lot on Central avenue between Hawthorne and Broadway. The former owner of the Brand boulevard lot was Mr. Harness, and Mrs. Rae owned the Central avenue lot.

The Smith estate on North Adams and Monterey road was sold to local people who intend making it their home in the near future.

Samuel Moyer and wife of Detroit, Mich., have purchased the acre and house of Richard Day.

Mr. Alexander of Glendale bought a lot on Wilson avenue.

Lena Levine of Los Angeles is the new owner of a fine 5-room house on Wilson avenue.

Mr. J. Melvin sold his beautiful home at 610 North Orange street to Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. N. White of Glendale is the new owner of a lot on West California.

Mr. and Mrs. Wild bought a fine lot on West Broadway and Pacific.

Dr. Hurst of Los Angeles bought a large lot in the Cunningham tract.

Mr. S. Miller sold to Florence Paschal four lots on Doran street on which they intend to erect modern bungalows.

Flora Barney bought an acre and 5-room house in Burbank.

F. Stone is the new owner of a West Broadway lot.

Dick Michel sold his pretty bungalow on North Columbus avenue to Mr. Steere.

P. J. Alvarado bought a lot on West Wilson on which he is going to move a fine 6-room bungalow.

Mr. and Mrs. Bear of Yucaipa bought the house at 536 West Elk formerly owned by Mr. Deley.

Mr. Davis bought the lot on N. Adams street, formerly owned by Mr. Millbrook.

Mr. Michel sold the beautiful Spanish stucco house on Dorothy Drive.

L. M. Walker of Glendale is the new owner of a lot on Wilson.

Mr. Snyder bought a business lot in Sparr Heights.

Mr. Steere sold Mr. Michel a lot on Grand View.

A man is usually judged by the company he keeps, but it isn't fair to judge a woman that way. Her company is frequently forced upon her.

CAVANAHS HAVE MUSICAL NIGHT AT STUDIOS

A group of fifty musicians and music lovers enjoyed a most interesting musical evening at the Cavanah studio, 130 North Orange street, last night, which was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cavanah. The numbers presented included vocal duets by Mr. and Mrs. Cavanah: "Oh, Moment That I Bless" (Dennee), "I Would That My Love" (Mendelssohn), "At Parting" (Allitsen); group by the Glendale String trio, composed of Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb, pianist; J. A. Myers, violoncellist; Julius Kranz, violinist: "Marche Militaire" (Schubert), "Abend Lied" (Schumann) and "A Spanish Dance" (Moszkowski); group of contralto solos by Mrs. Cavanah, "Deep River" (Fischer), "Invocation" (De Hardelot), "Sacrament" (McDermid); reading of Richard Harding Davis' "The Deserter" by Carter Moore; tenor solos by Mr. Cavanagh, "Lil' Moon" (Bartholemew), "Oft in the Stilly Night" (Rhys-Herbert), aria from the French opera "Le Roi D'ys" (Lalo).

The feature of the evening's program was the performance of the MacDowell "Concerto" for two pianos in three movements, by Miss Gertrude Cleophas and Mrs. DeLorenzo. Miss Gertrude Cleophas is principal of the piano department of the Cavanah studio. The manner in which this number was presented was a revelation to the group of friends present who were most appreciative of the wonderful work of these two young women. The Glendale String trio is also doing splendid work and have just recently organized. Mr. Moore's reading was also very much enjoyed, as was also the work of Mrs. Ruth Baird, who accompanied at the piano for the vocal numbers.

Mr. Cavanah presented the idea of a musicians' club to those present, the desire being to have groups of musicians gather frequently for musical evenings and discussion of their work.

"VANITY FAIR" IS STUDY IN FEMALE ADVANCED THO'T

It is hardly necessary to remind anyone that the Becky referred to is the principal character in Thackeray's great novel of "Vanity Fair," at the Glendale theatre today and tomorrow. She has had her defenders before, and her detractors, but perhaps few, since her creator, who have viewed her as sympathetically and understandingly as Mabel Ballin, the girl who brings her to the screen, under the direction of Hugo Ballin, for Goldwyn.

"Becky was born ahead of her time," continued the charitable Miss Ballin, "by about a century or so. Had she lived today she would have been an eminently respectable lady lawyer or perhaps a motion picture star. Whatever career she undertook would have been hectic, but successful.

"But according to the etiquette of Thackeray's century, a girl of Becky's station could become a lady only by diplomatically forgetting to be a lady on propitious occasions—when an amiable and sympathetic gentleman was in the offing."

It is hard to maintain the conventional ethical arguments without a flicker of doubt when Mabel starts pleading for Becky. She is Becky. She makes it so plain that Becky subscribed to a different code of ethics—and who wants their screen heroines conventional! Miss Ballin even ventures to psycho-analyze this indomnitable little vixen who worked out all her complexes in such Freudian fashion even before Freud had discovered them.

DOCTORS NEEDED TO PREVENT SICKNESS

Doctors are as badly needed to teach health as to cure sickness according to the American Child Health Association, of which Herbert Hoover is president.

Dr. L. Emmett Holt, noted authority on children's health and first vice-president of the association, says even if the world could hope for the day when all illness would be wiped out, there would still be as much need for the physician as at present. "For the only way in which sickness can be reduced," said Dr. Holt, "is for doctors to dwell constantly on the necessity of looking to health before illness is indicated. Doctors can become a great army of teachers in a cause which will occupy their time more and to greater advantage in preparing others for good health, rather than by avoiding this phase of hygiene and confining themselves to the cure of illness after it develops.

"The physician who feels that the campaign to aid health such as is being waged by the American Child Health Association, is endangering his practice because it will reduce illness, will find that the field of teaching good health is yet a virgin one and that there is enough work to do for several generations before the desired results are obtained.

"The United States is now as far down as sixth among the nations in infant mortality and this unfavorable condition exists, not so much because of poverty, as is generally thought, but because of ignorance, indifference and neglect."

Dr. Holt said the purpose of his organization is to improve health in children by organized teaching in the home and school.

It is a fortunate thing for one-half the world that it doesn't know how the other half lives.

CONNIE MACK IS GETTING BACK TOWARD TOP

(By HENRY L. FARRELL)
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 30.—(United Press).—Looks like old times to see the Philadelphia Athletics back in the American League pennant race. The young team that carries the colors of Connie Mack may feel funny up around the heights, but certainly it is no novel experience for the gaunt old leader of the A's.

Mack deserves to get some results, for he was game enough to withstand the ignominy of eight years at the bottom of the pile to prove the contention that he could build up an other machine as good as the one he smashed in 1914.

The tall Philadelphia leader has peculiar ideas about ball players. He considers a team great only when it has a man in eight of the regular positions particularly adapted to that position and he says that he now has such a combination.

Mack's success in building up a new contender from practically nothing is a tribute to perseverance and patience.

Johnny Rawlings, having been bounced around with several major league clubs, came to be known as "Lucky Johnny" when he was rescued from the Phils in midsummer of 1921 and jumped into a cut of two winning ends of the world's series with the Giants. "Lucky John" was sold recently back to the Phils and he yelled that he was the victim of hard luck. He has funny ideas about luck.

Board of Education Has Good Meeting

Cerritos avenue, Central avenue, the high school and the Patterson avenue park and pool.

The staff: R. E. Tucker, superintendent; Mr. Bremer, Cerritos avenue; Mr. Hanson, Central avenue; regular staff at the pool; high school directors to be selected by the board.

Budget, to be expended as follows: Salaries, E. R. Tucker, June, July and August, at $150, or $450; Mr. Hanson, 2¼ months at $100, or $225; Mr. Bremer, ditto, $225, and equipment $100, making a total of $1000.

Mr. Tucker also outlined a movement to persuade parents to equip their home grounds with some athletic apparatus for the entertainment of their children during the summer.

The board voted to accept the proposition of Mrs. B. E. Jones of Whittier, to purchase a house and lot on Milford street near corner of Columbus, for $5500.

A communication from the electric workers of the city, endorsing the proposition to convert the present high school site into a civic center was received and placed on file.

A request on the part of the Southwest Museum to exhibit in the city schools a film on "Dwellers in the Desert" was considered and the board decided it could not be allowed during school hours because it will be a pay assembly, but that it would be desirable to have the film shown after the school session because of its educational value.

A request from the Rossmoyne Subdivision company to place advertising signs on the Cerritos school campus was denied.

Superintendent White and Business Manager Black were instructed to prepare a budget for the coming year and Mr. White outlined a tentative budget.

A letter from the secretary of the board of supervisors was read which stated that the reports from attorneys for the bond buyers were favorable and it was believed the money would be available next week.

METHODISTS ARE TOO STRONG FOR POSTAL EMPLOYES

The baseball game between the team of the First Methodist Church and postal employees Tuesday evening on the high school grounds proved an interesting event in which the Methodists won with a score of 28 to 16.

Tonight the city firemen and Jesse Smith's Fords will clash at 7:30.

Friday, city employees will play the Standard Oil team, which is coming out for the first time.

A meeting of the managers of all teams has been called for Monday night at 7:30 at the high school by Mr. Hayhurst, to work out a schedule of games in which teams will compete for the trophy offered by Mr. Smith of the Standard Oil company, and all managers of teams are urged to be present.

King Saved His Pennies to Refit Royal Yacht

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, May 30. — King George's 30-year-old racing yacht, the Britannia, which he could not afford to replace with a more modern cutter, has just come off the ways for another season of racing. She has been re-coppered, overhauled, and equipped with new running gear.

King George has never hesitated to say that he could not afford to build another big yacht, and last year he even went so far as to tell yachting enthusiasts that the Britannia would have to remain idle until he had saved up enough money to fit her out with new equipment.

He has decided to race the old craft this year chiefly for the purpose of reviving the sport, and for the benefit of spectators at regattas, as the Britannia under full sail, in a good breeze, is said to be a sight worth seeing.

Yachtmen here say the days of racing big expensive vessels have passed forever. It has become such a costly sport, they say, that kings are no longer able to afford it, and even syndicates of millionaire sportsmen hesitate to undertake the huge outlay necessary.

The girls opened the program with their group of atmospheric songs, with the girls, dressed as flowers, rising in the garden and singing. Their first number was the Cantata, by Denza. Other of the chorus numbers especially well rendered were: "Summer Breezes" and "Good Night." The soloists of the club, Winifred Parker, Marian Grey and Gertrude Heideman, did commendable work.

The second part of the program was given over to piano selections. The members of Miss Zeigler's class who took part were the Misses Faye Williams, Charlotte Meithven, Shirley Fawkes and Arthur Crowell.

The Boys' Glee Club followed with some excellent numbers, the best being "Monarch of the Woods," by Cheny, and Hammond's masterpiece, "Lochinvar." Claude Whitfield and Alton Marshall did excellent work in this number.

"SIXTY CENTS AN HOUR," TO OPEN AT THE T. D. & L.

"Sixty Cents an Hour and Drive It Yourself. First Class Cars for Hire." So reads the sign in front of Grogan's garage in the Paramount picture, "Sixty Cents an Hour," starring Walter Hiers, which comes to the T. D. & L. theater next Friday and Saturday. Autoists can imagine the comedy in a scene of anyone unfamiliar with a car taking his sweetie out for a spin. The ride is sure to end more or less disastrously, as it does in the case of Jimmy Kirk, played by Walter Hiers, in this comedy. Hiers awakes from a daze to find Mamie Smith, played by Jacqueline Logan; a Ford roadster and himself in a heap after crashing through the side of a barn and landing none too gently in a pile of hay.

This episode is but one of many uproariously funny incidents in this excellent comedy-drama. The supporting cast is exceptionally strong.

PRESS CARRIERS IN THINKING CONTEST

Prizes Are Offered for the Best Essays on Athletics

A contest for the purpose of developing the thinking powers of the newsboy, according to D. K. Mitchell, circulation manager of the Glendale Daily Press, is being conducted among the Press delivery boys.

A prize of $2.50 is offered to the one who submits the best assay on the value of athletics to the carrier boy. Here is the first to reach the circulation department:

How Athletics Help a Carrier Boy

"To Mr. Mitchell:

"What good is an athlete? To answer that question, which many people ask, there are a few short, though brief answers.

"1. He is an able bodied man ready to do anything in his power at a minute's notice.

"What good do athletics do?

"2. It gives the body much fresh air.

"3. It strengthens all limbs and muscles in the body.

"4. When all athletes work together, they get good results in co-operation, and it takes co-operation in delivering papers. It is true that athletics are good for the growing boy and girl to, or the public would not permit to have them do athletic stunts on the school grounds.

"To be an athlete you have to get out and practice with all your strength and will, for whoever heard of a champion runner just practicing now and then, whenever he wanted to?

"What good do athletics do in the boy's life? There are many reasons.

"1. They get team work and they get more of a kind heart at delivering papers.

"2. It gives them co-operation and there is not one thing needed more than that in carrying papers.

"2. They get a feeling that they want to snap into their task, not only playing ball and things like it, but all athletics, and get them done in the right way.

"4 It teaches them to play clean and not try to spoil everything with a little fun in sight."

(In as much as the contest has not yet closed, the name of the contributor is withheld).

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones were host and hostess at a luncheon given at their beautiful home on Kenneth road Wednesday in honor of Governor James Graves Scrugham of Carson City, Nevada, and his party. Covers were laid for fourteen, viz., the governor and Mrs. Scrugham, Mr. and Mrs. H. Jonnson, Mrs. Evans of Tulsa, Okl., Leonard Wilson, chairman of the day at the memorial exercises in Grand View cemetery and a law partner of the nost; Dwight W. Stephenson, also a law partner of Mr. Jones; Robert Hanley, a prominent officer of the American Legion, and Mrs. Hanley; Mrs. M. Ewell Smith, motner of the hostess; Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their daughter, Winifred Jones.

Mr. Jones and Governor Scrugham were college chums, Mr. Jones being left in charge of the college battalion whenever the commanding officer and instructor was called away. When the Spanish-American war broke out, Mr. Jones was asked to fill the vacancy caused by the call to service of the regular instructor, and he also taught mathematics. Governor Scrugham was his first lieutenant during this service and they naturally developed a very friendly intimacy.

Immediately following the luncheon the governor and his party had to leave to attend a ceremony on the battleship Nevada, where a tea service was to be presented and where it was very desirable that the governor of the state for which the vessel was named should be present.

Mrs. Lloyd H. Wilson of 204 W. Milford was hostess Tuesday evening at a little party in celebration of the birthday of her husband. The house was decorated with spring flowers and following an evening of cards and music refreshments were served, and a "Jack Horner Pie" was passed from which each guest drew a favor and souvenir of the evening.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rattray, all of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Gordon of Los Angeles, the house guests of the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Prather of Excelsior Springs, Mo., and Grover Prather of San Diego.

TUESDAY CLUB HAS PLEASANT SOCIAL AFTERNOON

Mrs. Charles H. Toll Is the Special Guest of Honor

The reception at the Tuesday Afternoon Club on Tuesday following a meeting of the executive board, proved a very pleasant social affair. Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the District Federation of Women's Clubs, was the special guest of a function arranged to especially honor life members of since June 27, 1922.

the club and those who had joined

While it was comparatively informal officers were in line to welcome guests, and section curators and committee chairmen had charge of the refreshments served at the close of the afternoon.

The chief feature of the program was a fine talk by the president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, in which she reviewed the high spots touched on in the Eureka convention, the motto of which was "Conservation." She told how the motto was applied to art, literature, philanthropy, and all departments of club life.

The picturesque event of the day was the presentation of a letter shower to Mrs. Toll in a beautiful little green basket tied with orange colored ribbon, the colors of the club, congratulating her upon her election as president of the district.

This was graciously acknowledged, by Mrs. Toll who did not undertake to make any address because of the lateness of the hour.

PAGE SHERLOCK! LOCAL SLEUTHS ARE STUMPED

Cherished Gift to C. of C. Disappears From the City Hall

Eagle Rock has a mystery! It is a bird of a story!

For Eagle Rock has disappeared, and as yet no local Conan Doyle, who has percolated through a correspondence school of detecting, has put a clue to aid the new police in executing their first definite commission. The entire force has been delegated, in spare moments, to pursue the American Eagle which roosts upon the rock, and to discover its present whereabouts. For whence, where or whither it has flown and hidden away, is the mystery which has swooped down and settled darkly in the very halls from whence the community law and order presumably emanates.

To be sure, we speak figuratively, for no one has literally uprooted our natural wonder and pinned it under his coat lapel, eagle and all, and taken it home to put in the gold fish globe with the other pebbles. But the figure of speech is permissible, for the beautiful tapestry painting of the rock, by Mrs. J. C. Brayton, which was presented to the chamber of commerce last November, has disappeared from its allotted space upon the wall of the city hall court room.

Whether or not some conscientious person merely annexed it until the disturbances of the readjustment period is over, or whether some fairy-fingered art connoisour, spying the valuable picture, apparently forgotten upon the wall, draped it artfully under his coattail and hustled out and away, is unknown. Those primarily interested feel sure that someone merely took it home to watch over until all is placidly quiet again, and in their anxiety, forgot to notify anyone else.

But some little alarm has begun to crop out among those who cherish the picture for the memories of yawning moments when their minds took away up the pictured boulevard, into the shade of the shrubbery and stood in awe below the stone eagle before returning to the boredom of routine matters tabled at the trustees' meeting. And many speed kings who have stood uncertainly before the judge in court, and have found vast relief during his quizzing by pinning their gaze on the self-same scene, hung on the wall in line of their gaze just over the judge's left ear, would no doubt feel still more uncertain if they were ever called upon to appear here again and could not find such a suitable excuse for avoiding the judge's stern and discerning eye.

And somewhere, the eagle itself is figuratively screaming for some local sleuth to take up the loose thread and weave the little mystery into a simple tale which turns out with a more simple and satisfactory conclusion. It but remains for some enlightened pussy-foot to slip around and then wind up the evidence into a ball, with the picture drawn in at the end of the string.

If Sherlock Holmes were here, he could do it, but anyway, if said picture does not get the cue and waltz out into the spot-light presently, someone will of necessity be questioned.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mrs. M. J. Hanna of 415 South Central avenue is spending the week at Sawtelle.

Maurice Hartmann, who will soon be leaving for St. Paul, is exhibiting some interesting souvenirs of a trip he once took around the world, some scarabs or sacred beetles of Egypt which he secured not far from the Sphinx and an interesting Turkish passport.

Mrs. C. G. Woods of 1610 Grand View avenue and her son, S. McK. Woods and wife have returned from a motoring trip to the High Sierras, the Yosemite Valley and San Francisco, stopping at Palo Alto where they visited a cousin, Alderson P. McKelvy, and also made a short stay at Santa Barbara.

Hubert Toll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll, who is to graduate from the Boston School of Technology this spring, and who has not been home for two years, is expected back the 20th of June. The members of his family are wondering if he will recognize Glendale, so great have been the changes that have taken place in his absence.

HAZEL, THE ULTRA-MODERN GIRL

Hazel is a rebel in her heart. She doesn't care, that for convention, and when she says that she snaps her fingers scornfully.

She has all kinds of ideas. She has many ideas. She believes that man is not a privileged sex. She cannot understand why a woman should take the name of the man she marries. She is a member of the Association Opposed to Women Taking the Names of Their Husbands. She is the corresponding secretary.

Her motto is, "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." Hazel believes woman has as much right to smoke in public as man. There's one thing she isn't, she says, and that's a hyprocrite. If she wants to smoke she will, and she doesn't care if she's in the smoking section of an open trolley car or in a restaurant or in the home of a person who doesn't believe women should smoke. They can take her, she says, as they find her.

Hazel is a rebel. She is the ultra-modern type of girl. She admits it. She boasts of it. She likes the description—ultra-modern.

Hazel would run for public office if it weren't for her conviction that politics have been made a sordid occupation by professional politicians. She believes in public service. She talks about service to humanity frequently. She talks eloquently. She uses her hands to emphasize her best points, and sometimes when she gets warmed up to a subject she almost snarls in her ferocious earnestness.

Hazel is not pretty. She is thin. She does not dress well and she makes no pretense of being a slave to fashion. She prides herself on this point. It's mentality, she says, that counts, and not looks. And Hazel has the courage of her convictions. She doesn't try to look well and nature has let her have her way.

Hazel has studied the new forms of psychological philosophy. She believes that Freud and Jung have the right idea. Hazel is getting on in years, but she isn't worried much about getting married. She says she won't get married until she meets the right man.

Hazel was one of the first girls in the country to bob her hair and wear knickerbockers. She believes the party system of government is wrong and she is a bit radical and socialistic in her heart. She cannot be told that a place is not fit for women to go to. Her argument is that if it's fit for men it's fit for women.

Hazel is a rebel in her heart. She is the ultra-modern type of girl.

Truths in Epigram

Every unpunished murder takes away something from the security of every man's life.—Webster.

There is merit without elevation but there is no elevation without some merit.—La Rochefoucauld.

The great mind knows the power of gentleness.—Browning.

DEPORTATION AS A CURE

A large proportion of the violent reds, that is to say, the ones who desire to bring about the overthrow of the government, are aliens. They are likely to remain aliens. They do not learn enough of the constitution, and they do not absorb enough of the American spirit, to qualify as citizens. Were they to seek citizenship it would be under false pretenses, and for the purpose of "boring from within," a favored method of the syndicalist. The presence of these aliens is disturbing. To place them in jail is to permit them to pose as martyrs. It leaves them still with power to agitate. Tender-hearted men and women are fooled into sympathizing with them.

These individuals coming from foreign countries, where they never had known liberty, bring their hatreds with them. They do not appreciate the land of opportunity. They are angered because applied industry has been rewarded, and that there is a visible showing of prosperity. Without an effort to make their own condition better; without trying to get into the current of American thought and endeavor, they appear as advocates of destruction. Such presumption should be regarded as beyond endurance. To place the bomb enthusiast in jail merely is to assure him comfortable quarters without work. It is not a cure, and at best nothing but a temporary relief.

The logical course is to send him back whence he came. If he likes the atmosphere of the old world, by all means let him have it to enjoy. This country, from the moment of its founding the haven of the oppressed, is under no obligation to tolerate the presence of alien thugs and ruffians who come with evil purpose, and live to create turmoil and discontent.

ANOTHER CURE

Announcement is made that a cure has been found for paresis. This brain disease causes a large proportion of the cases treated in asylums for the insane. The perfecting of a cure would work a vast social change. Thousands of lunatics heretofore supposed to be afflicted hopelessly, would come forth to join the ranks of industrial or social workers. Vast hospitals erected for their treatment could be devoted to other uses.

It is interesting that the cure should have been revealed so soon after a prominent scientist had given the world the information that the race was going crazy en masse. Evidently one school of science, or the other, is in error.

No "cure" is established as such on the mere word of the discoverer. It has to be tried, and proved that it does all that is claimed for it. Comparatively seldom does it survive the test. Memory goes back early to "cures" for a score of different maladies, that never cured any of them. For a time they had been heralded as great; then interest waned as they were found to be ineffective. Finally they were forgotten, save as they might be recalled by such an announcement as now made concerning paresis.

The vanquishing of paresis would be a blessing of value beyond estimate to humanity. That science has won such victory, there will be small inclination to believe yet. To serums and vaccines has been attributed a power little less than miraculous. Perhaps even at that, the faith of the patient may have something to do with the outcome. A paretic is not mentally equipped for the exercising of faith. This latest cure must rest on its own merits. In earlier days the mere act of sitting in rays that filtered through blue glass was thought to instill vigor, and heal any hurt less than a broken bone.

ARCTIC SUAVITY AND CHARM

Hjalmar Stefansson, whose very name seems like a breath from icy regions, continues to lecture concerning the beauties of the Arctic. He tells of its climatic charm, and its wonderful fertility. He thinks he sees in it the certainty of a great domain, productive and humming with industry.

If the gentleman does not temper his enthusiasm somewhat he is in danger of boing told that he is dreaming, and counselled to awaken.

Just at this time Captain Roald Amundsen contemplates an effort to reach the pole by airship. The American navy also plans a similar venture. The airship is chosen because it represents the last possibility. It is true that the late Peary reached the North pole, but it was after many weary years of trying. Other explorers have made the essay, only to perish, or to be rescued after hardship too horrible to be written into any story designed for pleasant reading. None of these had made note of the milk and honey flowing there. On the contrary each had looked upon a stretch of desolation and repellent terror. Measureless floes of ice do not afford homesites, nor suggest the starting of truck farms.

Stefansson seems, however, not to be selfish. His purposes must be altruistic. Otherwise he would take possession of the polar spaces, rather than invite the world to rush in and gobble the best farms and the most alluring corner lots.

As a rule, those who fail to chip in when the collection plate is passing are the first to criticize the sermon.

The busy man wonders how the loafer manages to live.

The secrets the average woman can keep are "those of her toilet."

SAVING NATURAL BEAUTY

In New York it has been found necessary to issue an appeal to people to save the wild flowers. Many handsome varieties are disappearing from regions in which they once were common. This is due to wanton destruction. The wild flower adds much to the charm of the landscape. Often it is as delicate in color and form as the bloom of the garden.

The plea is just as essential in California as elsewhere. Many tourists through secluded regions seem to have a veritable passion for leaving a desolation to mark the way they have trod. There is a law against cutting the yucca plant, yet automobilists, if they think they can sneak by the traffic police, still are guilty of this minor but irritating outrage.

But the plea needs to be more comprehensive. Campers pay little attention to the harm they do in leaving the places where they have stopped, littered and unkempt. They spoil the scenery, and add to the danger of fire by their rubbish.

A different type of vandal is the chap who paints signs on the noblest rocks he is able to find, so that his work catches the eye of every passerby. He may be advertising an article that is not without merit. There are proper advertising mediums. Let him keep his brushes and pots off the highway. Or perhaps he is not stirred by the desire to create business, but to save souls. Then he puts prominently at a dangerous curve in the road, "Prepare to Meet Thy God." Whatever his intent, he is a public nuisance and should be abated.

A doctor is making money when he begins to call his patients his clientele.

THE HONOR OF PROPHETS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Failure does not hurt a prophet any more than it does a hair tonic.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Prophecy has been discredited through the ages but today it has as many worshipers as war and as many advocates as the doctrine of physical force.

Why? Perhaps because people prefer to believe rather than to think; and, if a second reason is needed, because we love to disparage the new and to predict its failure. It takes the wind out of the sails of the chap who is working on something we are too lazy to try.

"You can't do that any more than you can fly," used to be a crushing expression of scorn. But men learned to fly, which shows that all the prophets who said they never would were false prophets with short vision.

What is a more brilliant success than the Edison electric light? Yet forty years ago the New York Sun predicted its failure on the ground that it cost too much and that there were grave mechanical difficulties to be overcome. Stack arguments against progress.

Are not the same things said of every new invention, and by the same prophets of failure?

Should you wish to get a hunch on the value of prophecy read "Darius Green and His Flying Machine" and follow it with a reading of the published accounts of a recent non-stop flight from Honolulu to San Francisco or that spectacular flight across this continent by Lieutenants John A. Macready and Oakley G. Kelly in 26 hours and 50 minutes.

Now comes a new invention to claim attention and a bevy of prophets to tell us why it will fail.

How many of you have seen the Kellum talking pictures? They give you an uncanny thrill and you begin to wonder how long it will be before we sit in a theater before a mechanical shadow that counterfeits humanity to a degree that makes it impossible to distinguish between shadow and substance.

Fifteen years ago Thomas A. Edison invented a talking picture that depended for its success on the skill of an operator. It was never perfected and all the prophets said:

"You see, we told you so. That will never be done."

But it has been done. Recently I sat in a big barn of a place and saw Irving Cobb and James Cox walk out and deliver talks to the audience. With a cigar in his hand, Cobb related negro dialect stories and except for the coloring you saw a living man talking through living lips. The synchronization between sound and motion was perfect. Since then I have seen numbers of these talking pictures, some in a theater, others in the studio. The one just criticism on the invention is that the sound is not yet loud enough. Some amplifier is needed. Can one doubt that soon or late one will be perfected?

The prophets say "Never," as they have always said. The faint of heart believe them, but the faint hearted are not the world's inventors. The inventor is he who listens to the still small voice in his own soul, the voice that precedes all creation. It is the inventors who are the real prophets; for before they prophesy they have touched the sea of spiritual realities.

DISCUSSION

(Find the errors in this article)

Good Suggestions

J. C. Allen has suggested that the word in should always be omitted from the expression in so far; as, So far as that is concerned.

The same correspondent suggests that the word extremely is quite unnecessary in the expression extremely elegant.

As to Construction

S. B. W. writes, "In the minutes of a meeting the following appeared: 'It was resolved that no new members are to be admitted into the club until the club has been in existence for one month. This resolution was unanimous.' Is the first of the foregoing sentences good English? We should also like to know whether you can say: 'She was nominated unanimously?' Would you call that a unanimous nomination?" Correct: It was resolved that no new members should be admitted into the club until the club should have been in existence for one month. To be nominated unanimously is a unanimous nomination.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

My boy, you've got a pretty good job on your hands.

The biggest job in all the world.

So far as you are concerned.

Not as big perhaps, speaking generally, as the building of the pyramids.

The making of the Panama canal.

The erection of a fifty-story building.

But a job that will keep you pretty busy nevertheless.

* * *

It is your own particular job.

One that should engage your first and most earnest attention.

One that you have been getting an education for.

One that your parents have denied themselves that you may do.

One that teachers and philosophers and sages and scientists have dreamed and studied for.

* * *

Perhaps by this time you have guessed what it is.

And it may be you have not.

If you have not learned yet, it is time you did.

And that is what this Listening Post is being written for.

For until you know what the job is, your education is not complete.

You have missed the germ and spirit of it.

* * *

And you cannot make use of your education until you know what it is for.

So if you have not been told before, it is time somebody told you now.

For the longer you put it off, the less good your education will do you.

And the less good it does you, the more wasteful has been the time and effort spent on you.

* * *

Education is to make you a builder.

A doer.

A worker.

And the biggest building you have in hand is that of your own physical, spiritual and moral temple.

And the biggest job before you is the making of a man of yourself.

* * *

An upright man.

A courageous man.

A useful man.

A helpful man.

* * *

That is the one big job before you.

And nothing could be bigger, as far as you are concerned.

For what the world is to you will depend much on what you are to the world.

If you do not make a man of yourself, the world will profit little by you.

And you will profit little by the world.

* * *

All of the labor of teachers and sages and scientists and philosophers will be wasted if you gain no wisdom for the making of yourself.

As far as you are concerned, they might as well never have lived at all.

* * *

So it is time for you to know what you are here for.

What your education is for.

What teachers have been laboring for.

What scientists have been studying for.

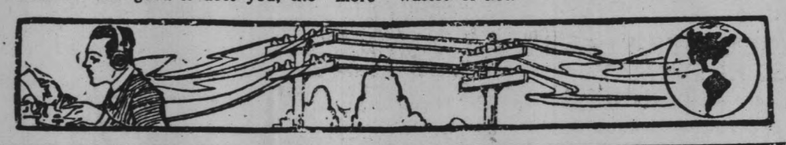
What philosophers have been seeking for.

All for the means to enable you to make a man of yourself.

* * *

Would it not be regrettable if all that effort and study and research were wasted?

It is up to you to say whether it has been wasted or not.



Songs of the Poets

The Wandering Knight's Song—By John Gibson Lockhart

My armaments are arms,
My pastime is in war,
My bed is cold upon the world,
My lamp yon star.

My journeyings are long,
My slumbers short and broken;
From hill to hill I wander still,
Kissing my token.

I ride from land to land,
I sail from sea to sea;
Some day more kind I fate may find,
Some night, kiss thee.

MEXICO AND RECOGNITION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I HAVE often quoted from the material issued by the Institute for Public Service. William H. Allen of this institute is doing excellent work in stating things clearly. If such a man were on the staff of a newspaper it would be of great benefit to the readers. One difficulty in understanding the news of the day is that the writers assume that the reader knows too much.

A recent loose-leaf pamphlet on current topics issued by the institute treats of Mexico and does that rarest of all things in literature, actually tells the fundamental facts of the situation.

It explains what "recognition" means. Boiled down it means that so long as we do not recognize Mexico she has no credit with us, is not trusted by us. Because we refuse recognition, Britain and France refuse it. While we three refuse, it is practically impossible for Mexico to borrow money for needed railroad material and better transportation, farm implements, seeds and animals. Because we withhold recognition, it is easier for Mexico to foster than to cure illiteracy, to practise than to prevent disorder, to confiscate than to conserve and utilize natural resources.

We have not recognized Mexico since President Carranza was murdered in 1920. The reason given by our officials for not recognizing Mexico is that that country does not protect foreign-owned property. Its very constitution says that a billion dollars in property supposedly owned by Americans really belongs to the people of Mexico. Our government, with Britain and France, says that this means confiscation, not protection of foreign property.

Secretary Hughes insists that we can have no permanent friendly relations with Mexico until its government gives us pledges not to permit the property of American citizens to be taken away without being paid, as our own government has to pay when it takes property away from private citizens.

Commissioners from our government have been recently named and are now discussing with Mexican representatives the terms on which we are willing to recognize Mexico.

It is hoped they will come to some agreement mutually satisfactory. For until we can deal freely with Mexico our own trade will be less than it might be, our friendships with all Latin America will be weaker than they might be, and unrest among Mexico's sixteen million people will menace our peace and prosperity.

Usually three conditions are demanded by one country as the basis for its recognition of another: (1) that the country asking for recognition has an organized government that seems firmly established; (2) that it has a definite territory; (3) and that it is independent. Ordinarly nations ask no more. Mexico has met these three conditions.

The only nut that still remains to crack is the one that has to do with the security of property owned by foreigners in Mexico.

Mexico is one of the richest countries in the world in natural resources. To get affairs settled there would open the door of opportunity to hundreds of thousands of our adventurous young men.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WORK FOR HUGHES

[Charleston News and Courier]

We shall have to do something about the abduction of Miss Aldrich and any other Americans who were carried away or mistreated, but it is fairly safe to say that we shall not get as excited over this raid as we would if it had taken place in Mexico instead of China. If these were Mexican bandits, there would be a pretty uproar all over the United States, for the interventionalists have yelled for war with Mexico upon much slighter provocation than the abduction of a hundred and fifty passengers traveling on a railway train.

Colonel Roosevelt, when he was President, was quite impartial in these matters and when Americans were molested in any part of the world, it did not matter where, he was likely to make pretty sharp demands. His "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead" has not yet been forgotten. Secretary of State Hughes is a less spectacular statesman, but it is to be hoped that he will not let the grass grow under his feet in taking the measure which this Chinese affair requires.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Last Sunday a young couple were overtaken as they trudged in the direction of Azusa. An older couple in a machine had overtaken them. A ride was offered and accepted.

HENRY JAMES

"Going to walk far?" was a natural query. "To Oklahoma," said the young man.

"Yes," chimed in the girl, "I've never seen his folks, an' his mother is getting very old."

This was an interesting story. The young pair started from San Francisco. They had been favored by some lifts by the way. In the beginning they had had $10, but only 17 cents remained. He had been in the navy and just discharged after long hospital experience. In the navy he had learned the trades of plumbing and electrical wiring. Before enlisting he had been a Santa Fe brakeman. He could get work at any of these callings, but he had to see mother. Been away seven years; pretty mean about writing, too. Well he'd been busy you know, awful busy, and in the hospital you didn't feel like writing.

Was he coming back? Oh sure. Six months was to be the limit outside of California. Could get work in Oklahoma. The wife—speaking to her she was sweetheart—she was a stenographer. They'd easy get the money to pay passage back. Walking was slow. He'd be mighty glad to see mother. So'd she be to see him. You bet she would. Good mother, no kid ever had a better.

How long did he expect to be on the hike? Oh p'raps twelve-fourteen days. Out on the desert they'd get long lifts. They weren't worryin'. Something always turns up, just like you folks coming along. Mighty kind of you, wasn't it sweetheart?

So he talked, frank and friendly. They were carried miles beyond Glendora, and set down on a winding beautiful road, he carrying their small pack, she, fragile, brave little thing, looking back with a smile to wave good by.

They have found a man in Moscow who is supposed to have committed thirty-three murders, and they seem to be making an explicable fuss about it.

Murders under the present regime, and with its approval, have run into countless thousands. A little individual score of thirty-three hardly is worth reckoning.

Either the woman has a certain sort of courage, or she doesn't realize how narrow had been her escape from the gallows, and how deeply the public resented the failure to name for her the penalty she had earned.

John McGroarty is one of the best friends of the Indians. He often writes of the gross mistreatment to which they have been subjected. He places the blame on the government. The fact is that he is such a good friend to everybody that harshness is not among his qualities. He even mentions in highest terms the honorable conduct of William Penn.

Penn was a thrifty gentleman who was able to get from the Indians more square miles of land for a string of blue beads than any other trader among them. They were good beads, however, and the Indians seemed to desire them, so, in a sense, the bargain was satisfactory. To regard it as just and righteous, however, requires possession of a gentler soul than the average.

Probably there is no truth in the rumor that Spain intends to build a larger navy. History tells of the time when Spain had such a navy. Never again, however, could Spain hope to become a sea power. It could not construct enough ships to put it on a sea equality with the larger governments, and therefore a navy would be a useless luxury.

The statement has been made that the Spanish throne is tottering. Perhaps this is not the case. It is more probable than the other story at that.

Because Governor Smith of New York opposed the k. k. k. he is informed that the order will not permit him to become President. It is quite possible that if he cherishes the ambition mentioned, he will be disappointed, but it would be shameful if the k. k. k. were permitted to be the deciding factor.

This country is not looking forward to the time when there will be a kleagle or something like that in the White House.

A wealthy resident of Los Angeles is now in Africa shooting big game. He has killed buffalo, rhinoceros and many varieties of deer. Not one of these creatures ever had hurt him. Had a buffalo butted its way into his Los Angeles residence, or a rhinoceros trampled his lawn, a condition of peevishness on his part could be understood.

To kill things for the simple reason that they are alive, and are, in the habitat in which God placed them, enjoying themselves in their own way, is a fashion in which humanity is wont to express itself; not thereby, it is to be hoped, expressing the best that is in it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Mary is flirting again. I've told her that she must stop it, but I'm not sure that she will. She's my cousin, round, peachy, black hair, and blue eyes, and full of deviltry. Her flirtations have not been serious, but you never can tell.

"Life's so darn monotonous," says Mary.

She's right, of course. Jimmy, who is her husband, is away all day. There is no more industrious and ambitious youngster in town than Jimmy. He hopes one of these days to build his small business into a big business. Then he thinks he will take Mary and the kids away for a long trip. Europe, maybe. Sometimes they talk of the fun they will have when they go to Paris.

"But I don't know," says Mary, doubtfully. "I wonder. Seems to me we've forgotten how to have fun."

The days run as like as peas for Mary. Up in the morning, a bath, breakfast with Jimmy, running battle with the two kids. The best kids in the world, but they certainly are battlers. It is no doubt fine for the kids that they should be full of life, but it is hard on Mary. Then it is time to see to the marketing and the household odds and ends. When Jimmy comes home he is tired.

"We hardly go out at all now," said Mary, mutinously. "I might as well live in Greenland."

Well—that's life. Jimmy cannot slack up now or his business might go to pot. Mary doesn't want him to slack. She looks forward to that good time that may come sometime, and besides, she loves Jimmy. But life is certainly monotonous.

"I'm not flirting very much," said she with a snort. "And it's fun."

Sometimes I think that if I were Jimmy I'd take a day off from business.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

MRS. ANDERSON TO RE-ESTABLISH THORNYCROFT

Woman of Surpassing Ability in Care of Sick Buys Plant

Written between the lines in the legal form which gives possession of the Thornycroft sanitarium into the hands of Mrs. Allie Taylor Anderson, a woman of surpassing ability, who came to Glendale five years ago seeking the opportunity and field in which to accomplish her aim in life, is the story of one who has clung tenaciously to the ideals which have actuated her every step toward eventual success, through experiences of misfortune that only seemed to serve as stepping stones in her career.

In the acquiring of the lease of Thornycroft from Mrs. Nan Maxon Miller, the former owner, this week, Mrs. Anderson is asserting the success that has become possible only through years of sacrifice for a loved profession, that of bringing comfort to the suffering. Her story carries with it an example of human will to do, overcoming all obstacles.

When Mrs. Anderson came to Glendale with her three children, Cymbeline, Waltha and John, largely for whom she fought the good fight, when it seemed that good fortune would never come her way. When arriving in California, the financial standing of the Anderson family amounted to about thirty dollars, but urged on by inconquerable spirit to reach financial independence, Mrs. Anderson found that her training as a professional nurse enabled her to secure a position as at the Thornycroft sanitarium, surgical department.

When coming to California, Mrs. Anderson did so against the wishes of her parents and other relatives in Greenville, Texas. Believing that California would hold greater opportunity for her, however, Mrs. Anderson undertook to make the trip here.

It was during one of the most trying periods of her stay here that a surprise gift of $250 from her father, seemed to change the balance in her scale, for dating from the receipt of this gift, her success has become brighter and brighter.

Investing her money her father sent her in a residence in this city, Mrs. Anderson was soon able to equip one room for the purpose of taking care of patients. As the word of her ability as a nurse passed from one patient to another, her field of service grew and grew.

Her whole personality was thrown into the work, and coupled with an ability that made for success in caring for the ill, Mrs. Anderson in time found that her quarters were not large enough to house the patients who sought her services.

Finding the property values had begun to increase rapidly, Mrs. Anderson watched her opportunity to dispose of this site, doing so at a generous margin of profit. She immediately purchased the site of the Golden West Sanitarium, where her fame as an expert in the care of the suffering has become proverial among professional medical circles.

Since taking over Thornycroft, Mrs. Anderson has re-named it the Golden West Sanitarium. The former Golden West Sanitarium at 1125 East California will be known as the annex. The new Golden West Sanitarium is valued at approximately $100,000.

A registered nurse in charge at the sanitarium will make it one of the most desirable in the Southland. Numerous graduate nurses and attendants will be employed to take care of the patients' wants. The administration will make a specialty of treating surgical cases and rheumatism and nervous disorders.

Expensive equipment is being installed in the kitchen, in order to furnish the most up to date methods of dietetics. Philippine help is to be employed in the kitchen and dining room.

F. P. Munsell, night superintendent, and M. L. Garrett, day superintendent and general supervisor of the male patients, are both thoroughly experienced in the profession. Mrs. M. J. Campbell, formerly of Colorado Springs, with one of the well-known health resorts, is secretary-treasurer of the Golden West Sanitarium. Mr. Fred Farr will act as assistant superintendent.

The Golden West Sanitarium, which comprises five acres, located at Adams, on Windsor road, offers many beautiful and restful haunts to the convalescent. Arbors, vine-covered and cool in summer, hills with their restless, yet peaceful array of trees of many kinds, and a galaxy of flowers bid for aiding in the work of reclaiming the patients to health and happiness.

There are 33 cottages at the new Golden West Sanitarium. These will be equipped and furnished to offer quiet retreats for patients whose nerves demand a rest from the hurry of the outside world. The administration building at 1100 East Windsor road offers one of the most favorable locations for an institution of its kind. The architecture is of favorable design, allowing the sunshine a way of entrance into every room, with a special allotment for the kitchen.

Although Thornycroft was already equipped to handle a large number of patients to advantage, Mrs. Anderson will carry out a consistent program of improvements in order to bring to pass the dream of a haven of rest for patients, which has hovered over her life since adopting the nursing profession.

Since coming to Glendale, Mrs. Anderson has won a host of friends both professionally and socially. She is a member of the Tuesday Afternoon club, the chamber of commerce, the Business and Professional Women's club, and other organizations. Her children are attending Glendale school and also enjoy a wide friendship here.

NEW OWNER OF THORNYCROFT SANITARIUM IN GLENDALE

Mrs. Allie Taylor Anderson, whose success in Glendale has been looked upon as almost miraculous, has added the Thornycroft sanitarium to her field of activities, having just signed a lease of long duration. Mrs. Anderson is also proprietor of the Golden West sanitarium. Thornycroft will be known as part of the Golden West sanitarium.

CHILDHOOD'S DISEASES

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Through a six months' period staff workers of the Indiana state board of health made a study of the life histories and physical condition of upyard of 4000 children. The findings of this study indicate a truly alarming prevalence of infectious diseases having more or less serious after-effects, and are of warning significance to every parent.

Altogether, 1916 boys and 1957 girls were included in the study. It was found that by the time they reached school age only 3.54 per cent of the boys and 2.84 per cent of the girls had escaped attack by some infectious disease. And among those attacked there had been a total of 6062 cases, or an average of nearly two cases of infectious disease to each child.

The principal infections, as revealed by a statistical survey, were, in every 100 cases:

Whooping cough, 18 per cent; colds, 15 per cent; measles, 11.9 per cent; influenza, 11.5 per cent; chickenpox, 9.7 per cent; sore throat, 6.5 per cent; pneumonia, 4.5 per cent; mumps, 3.9 per cent; scarlet fever, 2.9 per cent; brouchitis, 2.8 per cent.

This prevalence table, of course, refers only to the living children included in the study. Had account been taken of children in the same localities who had not survived infections the order of prevalence might have been very different. And certainly the general percentage of infectious diseases would have been appreciably raised.

As it is, the showing is deplorable, and still more deplorable when the sequels to infections are considered. The staff workers report:

"We find as a result of these early infections 60 per cent of the children having tonsils which need either treatment or removal, and about one in eight who have obstructive adenoids.

"Mouth defects, including bad teeth, average more than one to a child. Fourteen per cent have bone and posture defects, more than 7 per cent have a notable heart irregularity and nearly one-half have lung affections which, if not looked after, may later result seriously."

Hence, as is justly emphasized in the report:

"These figures show that acute infectious diseases of childhood are not 'over with' when the child apparently recovers. They are more often the beginning of a long train of disorders from which he may never fully recover."

And the tragedy of it is that, if only parents would, they could to a large extent lessen the incidence of childhood's infectious diseases.

Partly they could do this through hygienic measures looking to an increase of their children's resistivity to disease. Even more effectual, though, would be the cultivation, among the parents in every community, of a social conscience which would restrain them, if their children are attacked by infection, from letting those children act as carriers of infection to other children.

The Indiana workers, while finding that about 97 per cent of the children studied by them had had some infectious disease during the pre-school age, also found that no fewer than 73.85 per cent of these same children had entirely escaped infection in the first year of life.

"It will readily be seen," they comment, in a passage I commend to the consideration of parents, "that the waste of life and health due to these diseases rapidly increases as the child is able to run about by himself and come into contact with carriers of infection.

"Many of these diseases begin as affections of the nose and throat. If we could begin in infancy to keep these babies free from infections of the naso-pharynx, we could eliminate a large number of cases by never giving them a chance to develop.

"If every child who shows symptoms of a 'cold' were at once isolated, the twenty-five or thirty other children who might have 'caught' it from him would not get it."

This is a health-conserving recommendation in the full sense of the term.

Daring Explorer Is Driven Away from Forbidden Lhassa

[By Associated Press]

CALCUTTA, May 29.—Dr. Hugh McGovern, the Irish Buddist priest who recently succeeded in penetrating the world's greatest rampart of mountains, the Himalayas, behind which lies the forbidden city of Lhassa, has just returned to Darjeeling after having been arrested by British frontier authorities for violating Tibet's sacred ground. The doctor reports that in his attempts to get into Lhassa he and his four companions suffered intense privations and exposure in the snowclad mountains, which are 500 feet higher than the highest peaks in the United States.

After battling with snowstorms day and night and being compelled more than once to retrace his steps, McGovern at Hangu was confronted with a strike of his servants, who refused to go further. He had to beat them into submission before they would resume the journey. He kept his ultimate destination secret from his companions, fearing they would desert him if they knew the distance and the hardships. On the desolate mountain pass of Karula the Lrish prelate revealed his objective. Only under compulsion did his companions continue the journey with him.

To avoid detection by the fanatical Tibetans, Dr. McGovern dyed his hair and painted his whole body so as to look like a native. Thus disguised and attired in the dress of a peasant, he played the role of coolie and cook. After many weeks of trying experiences and reverses he finally reached Lhassa, only to be apprehended by the Tibetans, who ordered his immediate deportation. He is now with friends in Darjeeling and will soon leave for England.

An American who is planning to enter Tibet is Captain Merl La Voy, of Seattle, Wash. Armed with credentials from the American State Department and permits from the Chinese government, La Voy with a number of American scientists and explorers will leave India late in the fall and proceed directly for Lahassa.

a better crude makes a better Oil

Zerolene oils are made from selected Western Naphthenic Crude, which repeated tests have shown to produce an oil having greater "crawling" qualities, greater adhesiveness, and greater stability than oils made from other crudes. Hence the car lubricated with Zerolene will use about 5% less gasoline because it is continuously better lubricated.

Moreover, Zerolene produces less carbon than any other oils we have tested or been able to produce. Cars lubricated with Zerolene run from 25% to 50% farther before valve-cleaning and carbon-removing operations are necessary.

Insist on Zerolene—even if it does cost less.

MOUNT DIABLO PARK PLAN IS POSTPONED

SACRAMENTO, May 29.—The Mount Diablo State Park bill to provide $165,009 for completion and improvement of Contra Costa county's outdoor mountain playground for the people was passed unanimously by the senate, and received an overwhelming majority in the assembly, but did not receive the governor's approval.

Harold French, executive director of the Mount Diablo State Park council, an organization of citizens urging the establishment of this great central mountain park and playground, said: "It is understood that the governor withheld his action on account of the requirements of the economy budget, so there will be a delay of the chief development work for at least two years. By that time the state authorities may be able to agree on plans and details of finance.

"While it is natural that there is a feeling of disappointment, yet we have the consolation of knowing that our efforts were on behalf of the welfare of the state. The nucleus of the park, consisting of several hundred acres, still remains in the hands of the Mount Diablo park commission, which is composed of James F. Hoey of Martinez, Mrs. C. L. Dodge of Crockett, R. M. Sims of Berkeley, Joseph R. Knowland of Oakland, and Lewis F. Byington of San Francisco. Lovers of the great out-of-door life in California and elsewhere have expressed sympathy with the work of the park commission, with the hope that at some time not too far in the future, the plans for improving and completing the park may be accomplished."

TIGERS BUILD "MAIER PARK"

[By Associated Press]

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 28.—Edward R. Maier, owner of the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast Baseball league, has announced plans for the erection of a two-deck grandstand to seat 18,000 to 20,000 persons, at the old Maier park, the Tigers' home grounds at Vernon.

Vernon now plays its home games at Washington park here and will continue to do so until 1926 when the new park will be ready, said Maier.

The lease on the Washington park, now used jointly by Los Angeles and Vernon, will expire at the end of the 1925 season, and the Los Angeles club has already purchased ground on which to build a modern baseball park. However, the Los Angeles and Vernon clubs are not overly friendly and because of this, it was said, Maier intends to construct a park of his own.

Fans will be able to reach the park at Vernon by electric railway from the business district of Los Angeles in 15 minutes, according to Maier.

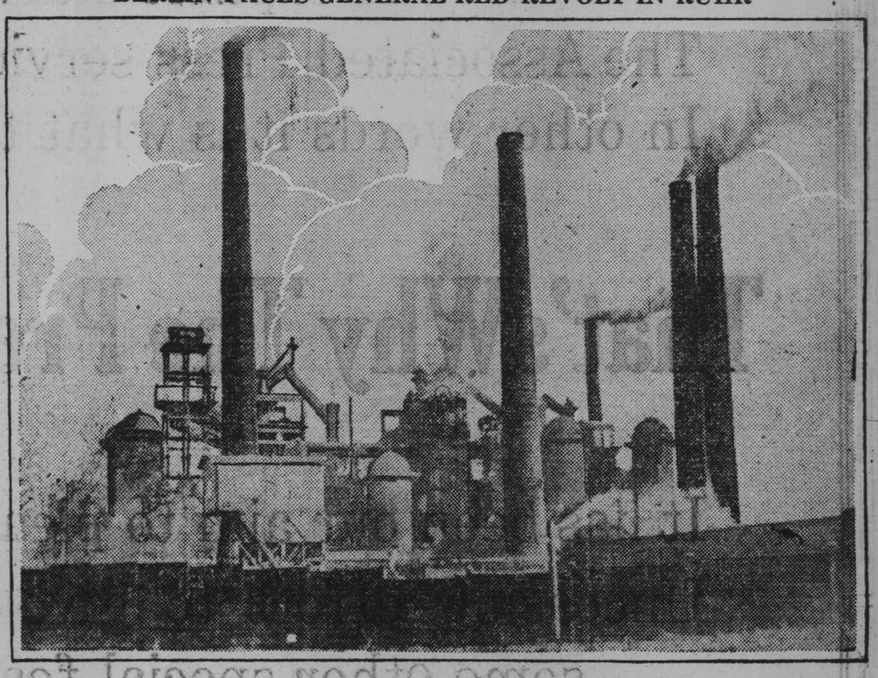
BERLIN FACES GENERAL RED REVOLT IN RUHR



One of the objectives of the Red uprising, a mine in Mulheim.

Berlin fears that the Red uprising which broke out at Mulheim recently may flare out all over the Ruhr district. According to reports, the monetary aid which has been the government's chief persuader in its "passive resistance" policy has not been forthcoming of late and the workers desire to return to their jobs instead of lying idle while the industrial chiefs live in ease.

FIGHT COPPER ORE DECISION

[By Associated Press]

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 29.—A lively legal battle is expected as a result of the Utash Copper Company's appeal from the decision of the state engineer granting the application of Henry N. Standish of Bingham for water from streams from which he expects to recover the copper content.

This method of recovering copper values has become common in the vicinity of Bingham in the past few years. A wooden tank is used, partly filled with scrap iron and tin. When the water, carrying salts of coper in solution, is run through the tank, the copper replaces the iron by chemical process.

The Utah and other mining concerns claim that the copper thus derived comes from their claims, and that it belongs to them.

IS PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM FAILING TO FUNCTION?

(Following is the complete text of the fifth sermon in a series of nine on the general topic, "Is the World Growing Better?" delivered in the Central Christian Church by Rev. Clifford A. Cole. The subject of this sermon, which was delivered Sunday night, May 27, was "The Coming Generation, Is Our Public School System Failing to Train Our Youth?" The sixth sermon, which Rev. Cole considers the most important of the series, will be heard next Sunday evening. The subject is "The Good Old Days. What About 1923 Morals?")

It seems to have been proven long ago that what we would have appear in the life of the next generation we must put into the public schools of this generation. It is not only true that attainment of goals of efficiency and of mental achievement must be early prepared for, but if we want a high moral and spiritual standard for tomorrow we must prepare for it today.

Our public school system is one of the glories of America. It has achieved marvels in training the mind and in giving to all American youth opportunity to become worthy citizens and leaders of thought and action in every sphere of life and activity. We stint not of our means for its betterment. We expect to maintain it at all hazards. We believe that the perpetuity of the state and of democracy demands an educated citizenship.

But there is a very vital question that must be answered before we can say that the public school is functioning in giving to us an educated citizenship. It is, "What is education?"

There are those who scorn higher education, as college work is sometimes called, and scoff at the college graduate, because they have seen perversions. On the other hand, many seem to think that book learning alone is education. With some, it is merely a means of making money, of escaping the humble and hard toil of the world and getting up into easy places and large profits. In their view it means soft hands and unsoiled linen, an upholstered chair in an office, short hours of service and an increasing bank account. With others, education is a means of respectability and social standing, a passport into the class or caste of folk who have the reputation of learning and refinement. It is thus a mark of severance from the common crowds and a sign of aristocracy. Others act as though it were an inland sea, stored up for personal benefits. All such views are false and are the opposite of education.

Learning must be used to make it knowledge and "knowledge is power." Ruskin says there are three fundamental facts necessary in the definition of an educated mind, namely: "To know where one is; to know where he is going, and to know what to do under the circumstances." The chief discovery of man is to find his place in the moral order. All other knowledge is secondary. All other good motives spring from this motive. To discover the wondrous truth that we and God have business with each other, and to strive to learn what to do under the circumstances, is to be educated. Nothing short of that is. God must not be left out. From Him have we come and back to Him shall we go. Are we fitting ourselves for the return?

"Not in entire forgetfulness
Nor yet in utter nakedness,
But trailing clouds of glory do we come
From God, who is our home."

An education, therefore, that leaves out religion is not even half an education. Altruism and honor and integrity must have underneath them the religion from which they have sprung.

We intend to test education by resultant efficiencies in young men and women in the commercial world. We ask, "do the graduates make good in business?" The test is good so far as it goes, but it is a very small part of the whole criterion. Men must make good, but they must make good in the whole life; they must make good not only in ability to earn, but also to create; not only to get, but also to give, to serve, to sacrifice, to discern and to develop values, to make life bigger and more truly divine. This does not mean that we shall demand that all students shall receive training for professional theological work, but that they shall have at least as good a chance to become intelligent on the meanings and processes of work in the realm of religion as in any other realm of life; that they shall know as much about the growth of character, at least, as about the growth of caterpillars; that they shall know as much about the Bible as about Shakespeare, as much about Sunday school as about civic courts and political institutions, and that they who may desire to "major" in religions education shall have the oportunity to do so just as they would have in chemistry or sociology. It regards the man not only as a manufacturer or merchant, but also as a man living in society with religious interests and activities. It recognizes the church and the Sunday school as truly a part of his social life as is the bank or his business or his city.

I hold that our public schools are not educating our children. Not because they are not capable, but because our fundamental basis of American democracy will not permit them to do so. In the very beginnings of our national life we separated the church and the state. The state cannot teach religion. It should not do so. It is not a criticism of the public school system that it does not teach it. It is not one of its functions. I do hold that the Word of God should be as much a part of a school library as any other book and that it should be read, without comment perhaps, in every school of the land. But it should not be taught as a religious text-book there. It is the function of the home and of the church to do that. And since any system of education is inadequate which does not provide for the training of the religious nature of childhood, it is up to the church to give this instruction. With the home influence on the one side and public school teaching on the other, the church school is the keystone that forms the perfect arch of education.

Not only has the school failed as is evidenced by the crises of morals in America but the church has missed its opportunity, largely, for the generation that is now leading in life. It has failed to exercise adequately its teaching function with the youth of the land. While the Jewish church provides for its children one hour of religious instruction a day and the Roman Catholic church four hours a week, the Protestant church, by far the largest of the three in the Unite States, has been content with twenty-six hours a year—not for all its children but for one fourth of them—since half of the Protestant children go to no Sunday school whatever and only half of the other half are regularly present, and most of these are instructed by incompetent teachers. One-half hour a week is not sufficient to teach the most vital of all the teaching which humans receive. The buildings and equipment, as a usual thing, bespeak an inexcusable indifference toward it.

While the picture looks dark we need not despair. One notes a nation-wide increase of interest in religious education, and the church is beginning to realize that its job is not completed when the doors are closed on Sunday. We are facing squarely the issue of supplementing the work done on Sunday in the Sunday schools and harmony and with full co-operation with the public school, is bound to result. The public school officials themselves are pushing the proposed co-operation. Thirty-six states allow for this now, and even in California it looks as though the privilege of working together to educate our youth will be vouchsafed the school and the church.

But putting religious instruction classes close beside the public school, we may not only reach those who are reached on Sunday but we may reach them in a more regular and eficient way, besides touching many who are not enrolled in any Sunday school. Various experiments have been made within the last few years and some of them have been very successfully carried out.

My appeal tonight is that the church shall be prepared to give such instruction when it shall be permitted. To do it we shall have to have adequate equipment, trained teachers, a paid staff and the curriculum of study acceptable in quality and kind to merit using the time of our children.

A great new day is dawning in the matter of education. With the leading educators of America appealing that the church shall accept in a generous and efficient manner the responsibility which belongs to it, with a moral "letdown" that has alarmed those who are interested in public and private morals, with a church awakening to its task, it seems to the speaker that we will soon be putting into the training of our youth that which will result in the highest type of life the world has ever seen. It is not all darkness before us. There are evidences upon every hand that a new day is dawning for the training of our boys and girls.

Despite its defects, in the face of the fact that the Bible has largely been eliminated from our schools, our educational system is doing its work wonderfully well.

The church in America has an institution well organized and magnificently manned by a heroic teaching force, with all the potentiality of a unique influence to mold and shape the thinking and acting of millions of impressionable youths at the most critical age. But it is choked and hobbled and bound and gagged by its friends, because they have never had any vision of the real value of it, and have not been willing to pay the price, a decent price, for the most important part of education. It can never be done on the basis of the poor equipment of most of our church buildings and with an unpaid faculty and leadership.

I am wondering if the crux of success of the future doesn't depend on the answer of the church to these questions: Are its members going to be willing to pay something for the religious instruction of their children? Will we endow our church schools and our college and edequately provide school houses and faculties? Will we be willing to pay for Christian education in proportion to its importance to secular education? Is it worth more to you to have your son graduate in astronomy than to know something about the God who made the universe? Is it worth more to your children to know how to talk foreign languages than to speak the language of the Brotherhood of Man? And what shall it profit you or them if, after finding the things in college books that tell them how to get on in the world, they miss the way to Heaven and lose their souls?

Is religious education worth more than secular? If so, whose going to give it and who is going to pay for it?

We shall maintain that education does not have as its aim the making of a living, of money or a name, but a life. It is not to make one superior in caste over another, not that one may gain the power or ascendency over a brother, but to help one to be a friend of man and to know how to act toward God and men.

We shall maintain that the public school does not fully educate since it leaves out the fundamental of life and right relations, the teaching of religion to a creation that is incurably religious. We shall further maintain that the schools should not and cannot teach religion, and that, therefore, the church should prepare to teach it alongside the school and co-operating with the school. This must come in fact or else this nation shall go upon the rocks of infidelity and immorality. We face a crises at this very time. Educators see it and the church is awakening.

Is the world growing better? It is. And the world will be evangelized in that generation when the teachers of its youth will that it shall be!

MEMORIAL DAY

Such a gladsome day in Springtime,
Such tender skies above;
With life and boughs bloom-laden,
Ah! happy youth and maiden,
What joy to live and love.

Brave manhood's strength and beauty,
Fair maidenhood so true,
With gaze half shy upreaching,
To brown eyes subtly teaching
Sweet lessons to the blue.

Of roseate hopes he whispers,
For, e'er May days are done,
Comes one of crowning sweetness,
Joy rounding to completeness,
When they twain shall be one.

With winsome face uplifted,
Aglow with loving pride,
The woman's soul glad thrilling
At wondrous visions filling
Their future side by side.

What reck though pain and sorrow
Lie folded in the years?
Through bright and darksome weather
May they but walk together,
There's comforting for fears.

But, hark! E'er glad fruition,
E'er dawns that wedding day,
"My sons," our country crying,
"Forward!" the quick replying,
"God speed," and then away.

Oh! months of weary waiting,
Suspense and cruel fears!
Oh! day of crushing sorrow,
Hopeless dawning of the morrow!
Alone through all the years.

* * * *

Only a mound bloom-laden,
And a woman's head bowed low;
But, oh! the memories thronging,
The ceaseless, hungry longing,
Thou, God, alone dost know.

DR. FAREED SPEAKS ON RELEASE FROM BONDAGE OF TOIL

Dr. Fareed's "Message of Release" on Sunday, May 27, was listened to by an interested company of thinking people. He stated that man's history from its early dawn on down through the ages, has been one continuous struggle for freedom, or for release from fetters of different kinds. First came the struggle with nature; he sought means to free himself from the cruelties of the elements and wild animals. He had to seek food to release himself from the pangs of hunger.

Associating himself with groups of his kind their co-operation, in great measure, secured release from natural discomforts and dangers, but gave rise to new fetters—the tyranny of man over his fellows. The fight against this bondage has gone on with varying success until in the U. S. A. we have an example of the greatest release in this line, and all over the world the shackles are being cast off by a nation here and there.

"But now comes the climax," he said, "the self-imposed bondage of religion, politics, etc. and the worst feature of this is that people who wear the fetters think they are free. To be dogmatic about anything is to be bound by the strongest of fetters. Only by keeping an open mind can we ever hope to know the truth that shall make us free. The world at large does not want the truth. They think they do, but it is so much easier to hold onto what somebody said was truth than to investigate for themselves.

"The worst foes are those within, and if equal energy were expended on building high ideals in individual souls, as has been devoted to outward betterment, the nations would be much further along in their evolution. The whole business of life is the business of God—He is concerned with the smallest details of our lives. Christ meant literally what he said in Matt. v. 44. Learning to love an enemy actually secures a wonderful release, and gives to the soul a feeling of glorious freedom that can be experienced in no other way.

"More and more the messages of the present day are tending toward release of the soul of man from age long bondage."

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK

DAVID ROTH, FAMOUS MEMORY EXPERT, ENTERTAINS ROTARY CLUB WITH EXTRAORDINARY FEATS

Rotarians Will Give Farewell Banquet at Sunset Canyon Country Club to Convention Delegates

If ever you have been in that hopeless plight where you sat gazing out of the window wondering what it was you were trying so hard to remember not to forget you will have envy of David Roth, famous memory expert.

Mr. Roth, Los Angeles Rotarian, appeared before the Burbank Rotarians Tuesday noon at luncheon at the Sunset Canyon Country Club as the entertainer for the day.

The weekly luncheon conference began with the singing of America with Dr. Philip Zeis as song leader and Mrs. W. E. Sandison as pianist. Roll was called and Burbank Rotarians established a record by having five hundred per cent attendance for the month. Five Tuesdays with a hundred per cent attendance at every meeting made the record which Secretary Sandison announced to the members.

"Start it With a Smile" started the first course with a hundred per cent chorus singing. Business was taken care of during the luncheon and Mr. Roth was called upon to give an interesting, educational and entertaining demonstration of what it means to have the gift of recalling whatever you wish to recall.

Mr. Roth asked first for miscellaneous names to be called out by Rotarians. Words such as King Tut, Julius Ceasar, bran, hay and wheat were named, then Mr. Roth repeated them. Followed next the repitition by him of all the names of the thirty Rotarians as they were seated about the tables, with the telephone numbers, which he had seen for a second a half an hour previously.

Astonishingly quick and accurately he gave a string of fourteen numbers of three units in each number. Mr. Roth has a code of a hundred words such as hat, hen and ham whereby he remembers everything that was ever invented much to the bewilderment of ordinary mortals. He can have some one park a hundred cars on a hundred corners in Los Angeles and having looked at them, give the license numbers, later at dinner.

His aunt, Miss Anna Sternberg of Pattison, New Jersey, who was present with him, told of his meeting several thousand Rotarians at a convention in Atlantic City. One man he met sometime later by the name of "Flitkaugh." He was able to recall his name from the association of the man's bald head with the name of Flitkaugh, because his hair had flitted.

The Rotarians wanted to hear more of the marvelous trick memory but Mr. Roth, mindful of the Rotarian rule of only so many minutes for luncheon, promised to come back some other time.

The club will give a farewell dinner Thursday evening at the Sunset Canyon Country club for the two Rotarians who are leaving soon for the International convention at St. Louis. It will be guest night and the Rotarians will invite the ladies.

A picnic will be given later in the summer.

The club appointed L. F. Collins, F. C. Miller, Dale Eicher and Dr. Butterfield to be the judges at the Memorial Day parade to award the flags to the two rooms which had the best marching order.

AT REQUEST OF CITIZENS CITY TRUSTEES PROPOSE NON-CEMETERY ORDINANCE

"Burbank is no place for dead ones. We only want live ones here. Hollywood also wants live ones and so for that reason is trying to establish a burial ground in the northwest section of Burbank. We don't want it," was the vigorous protest made by one property owner in that part of town. More than fifty names were brought to the city council Tuesday evening at the regular weekly business session protesting the possible selection of a place within the city limits for a cemetery.

The council proposed ordinance 203, prohibiting the burial of the dead within the city limits. Violation of the ordinance will be punishable with a $500 fine or six months' imprisonment or both. The ordinance was passed to second reading.

Property owners within the city limits of the town have expressed themselves as decidedly opposed to a cemetery within the corporate limits of the town and they will welcome the passing of this ordinance.

Since Burbank has been undertaking so much street improvement work, one of the highest tension moments in the evening comes as the time draws close to the opening of bids. Sidney Smith, no relation to Andy Gump's father, attended the Tuesday night meeting to submit a bid for the water line on Olive avenue. He started from Los Angeles in plenty of time but he blew out a tire on the way over. The tire trouble made him very tired but he continued on his way and submitted a bid for six inch piping at $1.95 and four inch, including fittings at 95 cents. Claude Fisher submitted a bid for six inch piping at $1.85 and four inch pipe at $1.11.

L. A. Young of the Associated Oil company was awarded a six months' contract for all the gasolene to be used by the city of Burbank during that time.

The pathetic story of a lost stove was presented to the city council when H. W. Rouscup told how the electino board, suffering with cold feet, was saved from perishing by Dale Eicher, who loaned two stoves, brand new, to them. One got lost. The bill was eleven dollars. The board thinks that unless Mr. Eicher is paid for the stove, next time he will not care to donate the use of a heater. The matter was presented to the city council.

With all the scores of street improvements calling the attention of the council, there will soon be several more streets that will come up for attention. Property owners on Main street, Seventh street, Pioneer avenue and Buena Vista drive are anxious to have better roadways. They have been out collecting the deeds and expect to bring the matter before the city council at the Tuesday night meeting.

Friday night Buena Vista drive property owners will meet to prepare everything for the Tuesday meeting petitioning for street work on that thoroughfare.

WILL PLACE WAR RELICS AT DOOR OF ARMORY

Burbank is soon to have interesting war relics for the armory. Captain Frank Tillson has said that one cannon and one pyramid of cannon balls will be placed at the armory entrance.

The regimental commander has requisitioned cannons and balls for Pasadena armory of Co. H, and for the armory at Exposition Park in addition to the home of Company I.

OFFICERS FOR CLASS NAMED

Young members of the Sunday school taught by Mrs. W. E. Hutcherson have organized. Officers elected are:

President, E. H. Powell.
Vice-president, Ray Short.
Second vice-president, Miss McMullen.
Secretary and treasurer, Miss LeMasters.
Entertainment committee: Messers Fitzpatrick, Hayworth, Bradshaw, and Miss Bowerman.

NEW CLERK AT POSTOFFICE

Mrs. Ted Sinclair began work Tuesday as the new clerk at the post office window. Mrs. Irene Kyle left today for the beach, where she will make her home. She has been the clerk who has accommodated the public for the past two years and Burbank will miss her. Mrs. Sinclair promises to give just as cheerful service, however.

BAPTISTS GIVE FAREWELL FOR OMARTHS

Teachers and Officers Guests at Party for Family

Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Omarth and two sons, Herbert and Maxine, were given a farewell party Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hutcherson, 262 South Olive avenue. Mrs. O. J. Thompson was assisting hostess.

The Omarths are to leave the last of the week for Bedford, Oregon. Mr. Omarth has been Sunday school superintendent of the Baptist church for the past year. The officers and teachers and the wives and husbands met to bid them goodbye.

Games and music were enjoyed during the evening. Expressions of regret over the family leaving were made by all the people present.

BURBANK EXPECTS BIG TWENTY MILLION DOLLAR CONCERN TO LOCATE HERE

Industry Will Choose Between Portland and California Site of Eighty Acres for New Western Location

Burbank is all excited today. Rumor is afloat that a big twenty million dollar concern which supplies seventy per cent of the brass products on the Pacific coast will locate in Burbank. It is said officials from Illinois were out hunting a site of eighty acres for the plant. They were favorably impressed with two places, one on South Magnolia and one south of the Moreland plant.

The choice lies between Burbank and Oregon. Burbank realtors are hoping to sign them to a contract before the week is over although when asked about it refused to give out any information relating to the deal.

If the plant should come to Burbank it is said that it would mean fifty thousand more people in Burbank in five years.

BURBANK PAYS HOMAGE TO NATION'S HEROES IN CEREMONIES AT SCHOOL AND CEMETERY

Burbank began to pay tribute to the nation's heroes at 8:30 o'clock Memorial Day morning when Company I assembled at the armory and raised the flag, then lowered it to half mast while the bugle sounded taps. Then the company marched to the Edison building grounds where the American Legion was in charge of the morning program.

Rev. E. A. Main offered the invocation. The Choral club sang "America Triumphant," with Mrs. Ray Fischer and Dr. David Thompson singing the second and third verses as solos.

"It is our sacred duty to assemble here to join with hundreds of thousands throughout the United States and in France to honor the men who have fought to preserve the nation and have passed to the distant land," said Mayor J. C. Crawford when in a short, eloquent address in which he paid homage to the soldiers who have helped to make the United States.

First recalling the achievements of the American heroes who have died, he mentioned the privilege and opportunity we have now of giving of our flowers, our cheers and love to the living heroes. He closed his brief address with an appeal to all to cherish the love of the country and its constitution, to obey its laws and defend its flag.

The program closed with the lowering of the flag to half-mast, the bugler sounded taps and the community sang the Star Spangled Banner, led by the Choral club, while the American Legion and Company I stood at attention.

A thousand school children in white, tiny girls bearing branches of flowers, and the older ones wearing large red, white and blue bows and sashes, accompanied the military organizations as they marched to the cars to go to Grand View cemetery, where the dedication of the burial ground of the American Legion was held. Governor Scrugham of Nevada delivered the address at the cemetery. The ceremonies closed with a volley fired, and taps sounded by Company I at the close of the ceremony.

For a week Tom Higgins had been worried by a severe pain in the side of his head. At last he could stand it no longer, so he went to see a local doctor, who gave him a card for an English eye, ear, and throat hospital.

When his turn came to be examined, he was shown into a room where he was thoroughly examined.

After feeling his face all over, the doctor said:

"Now, then, my friend, is it this ear that's troubling you?"

"This 'ere what?" inquired the patient.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

By E. R. WAITE,
Secretary Shawnee, Oklahoma, Board of Commerce

THAT every citizen should help keep his city on the map in Capital Letters.

THAT some business men dream that business will come to them without the asking.

THAT it is a dream alright, a PIPE DREAM.

THAT good goods, service and prices, plus advertising win re-newed orders from a store's customers.

THAT pleased customers are a great asset to any business.

THAT the buyers are in the habit of looking over the ads to see who is advertising and what they have to sell.

THAT when a merchant advertises an article it means that the article is worth having.

THAT the merchant knows that if he misrepresents his goods he would soon lose the confidence of the people.

THAT when his reputation for square dealing is lost his business is ruined.

THAT it doesn't pay to try to deceive the public.

THAT the merchant who tries it is soon found out.

THAT a reputation for square dealing and truthful advertising results in a growing business.

LA CRESCENTA IS PLEASED WITH OUR SHOPPING DAY

Residents Find Goods of Quality Are Priced Attractively

LA CRESCENTA, May 31.—Many of the residents of La Crescenta valley took advantage of the Monday "shopping day" in Glendale and reported the day a tremendous success. A few years ago Pasadena was the mecca for all shoppers from this district but as Glendale began to grow and with it the attractiveness of the many new shops, the situation is quite reversed. The comfort of shopping in Glendale is one of the great advantages and it has long been conceded that not only the articles advertised in the daily papers are priced right, but most everything in the merchandise line, particularly the necessities are less expensive as days go on. The city limits of Glendale reaches Montrose and the La Crescenta valley and every resident in this district is justly proud of the many improvements and the splendid progress that has been made in Glendale in the past few years.

To clean an enamel bath, which has become discolored, take a soft cloth, dip it in turpentine and rub the bath. Polish with a duster. Enamel baths may also be cleansed with kerosene. They should be well washed out afterward with hot water and soda to remove the smell of the kerosene.

EAGLE ROCK NEWS

EAGLE ROCK FOLKS PURCHASE LOT FOR RUSTIC LODGE

La Crescenta Tract Woos Eagle Rock Picnic Party Back to Nature

Ten Eagle Rock families are grouping together to form a social group that will have as its headquarters a rustic camp in one of the most ideal spots adjacent to Eagle Rock. Growing out of the Community Players' picnic, which took place in La Crescenta on Sunday, a desire developed among a number of persons who indulged in the festivities of that day, and immediate plans were made for the purchase of one of the choice lots located in the Briggs' Terrace tract, north of La Crescenta.

The location, between West La Crescenta and Devil's Gate dam, has been declared the most healthful spot in the country by the state health department, and aside from this splendid recommendation, the lot itself is beautifully situated upon the rim of a canyon on the floor of which flows a mountain stream throughout the year. A splendid view of Montrose, Los Angeles, Santa Fe Springs, San Pedro, the harbor, and all the surrounding country is afforded by the elevation. Ocean breezes sweep over the heights through the warm summer days. All those who attended the picnic, without a previous thought of purchasing property for any such purpose, fell under the spell of the huge whispering cypress trees, the twinkling stream, the scores of birds warbling their songs of contentment in foliage coverts, and the ideal picnic sites in the district. Their enthusiasm in the project is boundless.

The water rights go with the property forever, and there is no danger of the grand old trees, set out forty years ago by the original owner of the tract, ever being torn down, as there is a clause in the sale of the lots to keep the trees standing as long as nature and the elements permit.

The situation of the lot is especially favorable as it is patroled by the forest rangers who care for the forest district immediately back of it, which is a game preserve. To one side is a section reserved for a park. A swimming pool, built of cement, furnishes a splendid place for those who like the cool mountain water. There is a large barn converted into a dancing place, and the lodge, when completed, will be a splendid place for week-end and holiday parties.

The ten families will stand the present debt of $600 for the lot, paying $60 each, and on Sunday plans will be discussed, when the entire group meets again on the lot for a picnic, as to the construction of the building. Wednesday afternoon the same group met on the site for a Memorial day celebration.

Many more persons, hearing about the plans of the group of ten, requested permission to join in on the purchase, but the original number having set a limit on their membership, enlisted the interest of the new applicants in forming another club to purchase an adjoining piece of property. There will be a membership limit of 25 set upon this group, and anyone interested in joining it is requested to meet with the original ten at the La Crescenta tract on Sunday. Picnic space will be reserved for them and the expense of the lot to each family will be but forty dollars if twenty-five persons sign up.

There is stone enough on the site to build a club house, and gravel can be secured from a nearby gravel pit. The spot will be somewhat secluded but not lonesome as more than 50 persons are building homes among the orchard and vineyard sections near the old Manor house built by Dr. Briggs forty years ago. A 40-foot county road will be built to the lot.

The following families have already come forward in the club of ten. The remainder of the ten will be chosen from among a number of applicants who are desirous of getting in on the social organization: Mrs. F. H. Lerchen, Mrs. Eleanor Squire, Mr. W. H. Dorrance, Mrs. Edith Parker, Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer, Mrs. E. D. Keen.

LEGION AUXILIARY WILL MEET ON JUNE 4

Library Club-room Needed for Election on June 5

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet in the library room on Tuesday, June 4, instead of on Wednesday, June 5, owing to the fact that Wednesday is the day of the Los Angeles election and it will be necessary to use the Auxiliary club room in the public library.

MASS MEETING FOR 'CLEAN UP WEEK' IS CALLED

To Interest Residents in Carrying Out Fire-Prevention Campaign

FIRE!

Does that word mean anything to you? If so, your duty is to make Eagle Rock free from this hazard.

"Come to the big mass meeting, Thursday, May 31, at 8 p. m. sharp, at the Central School Auditorium. Interesting speakers."

This is the gist of the 5000 handbills which have been circulated to the Eagle Rock residents through the school children and business houses. The crying need felt here for protection from the growing fire menace has led to the Los Angeles fire prevention bureau taking an active interest in the work. Beginning the first of the month the police department of Eagle Rock has been authorized to send out circulars demanding that property covered with dry grass be cleaned off as a preventative measure, and in many cases an expense of at least $5 is entailed in the work, when the owner finds it necessary to hire someone for the actual clearing away of the grass. The boy scouts, and the firemen detailed to supervise the clean-up work which commences on Saturday will see that every lot in Eagle Rock which is provided with firebreaks, where there is danger of the fire spreading to buildings or wooden fences, is burned off sometime during the campaign. Those lots not made ready for the workers will be listed and turned over to the local police who are co-operating in the clean-up week activities. The owners will be notified that they must comply with the city ordinance No. 19533 of the new series, and this at their own expense. The ordinance will be rigidly enforced after the clean-up campaign is completed. So any person, desirous of saving the expense of the clearing of his property can do so by spending a little time about the edge of the tract with the hoe and rake.

On Saturday morning all Boy Scouts in this district, and all other boys who wish to work with the firemen are asked to meet at the city hall. The clean-up brigade will commence at College View avenue and come east to Central, going south to the old Eagle Rock city limits. As much of the territory will be covered on Saturday as possible. If all vacant lots are ready for the men, there will be little delay, and one after another will be burned off. No permits will be issued for fires in any other districts than those being worked in by the firemen at various hours of the day. This restriction on permits will be carried on until the clean-up campaign is completed the latter part of next week.

The week beginning June 3 will be clean-up week proper, but in order to use the older school students who can render valuable assistance to the firemen in this work, it was thought advisable to get a head-start on Saturday, June 1, when they are free from their studies.

When the district east of Central is clear, the work will go on west, and south of Colorado. Then, next week the district north of Colorado will be carefully gone over in the same way, until every piece of property in Eagle Rock, which for many summers has been a menace to public safety, and a drag on the fire department, will be clear of grass and underbrush—if, the owners co-operate by seeing that necessary firebreaks are provided. Adequate apparatus will be speedily on hand should any fires get beyond control.

CHILDREN GREET MR. HARWOOD'S RETURN

Central school children welcomed Superintendent Harwood back with loud applause when he appeared before them in assembly, after an absence of several weeks. He has had a serious attack of the influenza which has prevented his attending to his regular school duties for three weeks.

If you are raising rabbits, grow a patch of chicory for them. There are few greens which they like so well and none on which they will thrive better. If you grow Witloof chickory you can dig up the roots when fall comes and force them in boxes of sand in the cellar, making a remarkably good salad which often appears on hotel tables as French endive.

NINE VETERANS OF THE MEXICAN WAR MARK THIS MEMORIAL DAY IN WEST

Celebrate the Seventy-fifth Anniversary of the Close of the Conflict With Mexico, on Memorial Day in 1848

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., May 31.—Nine veterans of the Mexican war of 1846-48 are alive in the West, and yesterday celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the close of the war between the United States and Mexico, May 30, 1848. These nine veterans live in California, Oregon, Utah and Montana.

The Department of the Interior reports a total of 52 Mexican war veterans alive in the United States, all of whom are being carried on the pension rolls of the government, since the official list was compiled recently by the government, two veterans of the west have died, leaving only 50 survivors.

The nine western survivors are:

William V. Benson, 95, Los Angeles; private, Company G, second Illinois Infantry.

William J. Biggerstaff, 92, Lakeport, Calif.; private, Company B, Santa Fe, Battalion, Missouri Mounted Volunteers.

James S. Boyd, 96, Dinuba, Calif.; private, Company F, Arkansas Mounted Infantry.

Urbam Chaudeur, 99, San Francisco; private, Company B, Tenth U. S. Infantry.

Enoch W. Conyers, 93, Clatskanie, Ore.; private, Captain Morgan's Company, First Illinois Foot Volunteers.

Malchi McCoy, 94, Vernal Utah; corporal, Company D, Second Infantry and Company C, Fourteenth U. S. Infantry.

John McFeeley, 95, Lebanon, Ore.; first class boy, U. S. Navy.

Robert Starkey, 94; Marshfield, Ore.; seaman, U. S. Navy.

Benjamin F. Tudor, 94, Victor, Montana; private, Company B, Santa Fe Battalion, Missouri Mounted Volunteers.

Two veterans, Charles O'Neal of O'Neal's, Calif., aged 91, and Jerdan Jerelman of Portland, Ore., aged 93, died on the eve of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the close of the Mexican war.

William Valentine Benson was born May 9, 1827, near Russelville, Logan county, Ky. When he was nine years of age he moved with his parent to St. Clair county, Ill. In the spring of 1846 he left the plowing of corn and enlisted in Company G, second Illinois infantry. His company went down the Mississippi river, landing at Matagorda Bay, Texas. From there he march overland into Mexico. During the Mexican campaign, Mr. Benson was in one engagement, the battle of Buena Vista. He was honorably discharged in June, 1847, while his company was still in Mexico. Returning to Illinois, Mr. Benson again took up farming until 1874, when he moved with his family to Sacramento, Calif. He moved to Los Angeles in 1900, where he now resides.

William J. Biggerstaff, born August 21, 1830, in Clay County, Missouri, lives at Lakeport, Calif. He is in good health and is mentally alert. Though partially blind, he walks daily a half mile to get mail and make household purchases. He is cheerful in mind, deeply religious. Up to a few years ago he taught and superintended Sunday school in the Lakeport Methodist church, with which organization he has a record of 61 years official connection. Mr. Biggerstaff enlisted several months before the war ended. He joined General Price's Santa Fe battalion at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He has lived in Lakeport since 1874 and has six children living.

James S. Boyd has made his home in Tulare county for nearly 40 years, residing first at Traver during its boom days, and for the last 12 years at Dinuba. After his Mexican war service, Mr. Boyd engaged in farming near Traver.

Urbain Chaudeur, one of the few surviving veterans of the 112,230 who fought for America in the Mexican war, was born in France, June 8, 1823, and came to America when a young man. He enlisted at the outbreak of the war on April 24, 1846. Mr. Chaudeur joined the Association of Veterans of the Mexican war shortly after it was organized in 1866. In May, 1895, the San Francisco post of the association urged all Mexican war veterans to join the association because "our ranks are thinning rapidly." The San Francisco post, in 1895, listed 2,000 veterans in the west, of which 1,200 were in California. The other 800 were scattered in Nevada, Idaho, Arizona, Utah and Alaska.

Enoch W. Conyers, a veteran of the Mexican war and pioneer of Oregon, lives at Clatskanie, Ore., where he settled nearly 70 years ago. Conyers was born Dec. 2, 1828, at Carlyle, Ky., and at the age of three moved with his parents to Quincy, Ill. At the age of 17 he enlisted as a private in Captain Morgan's company at the outbreak of the war of '46 and served until the close, having taken part in the battle of Buena Vista. He returned to Quincy and then took the first telegraph instrument into Iowa, which he operated for a year at Keokuk. Mr. Conyers was in the Oregon legislature the year that state was admitted to statehood. He cast the deciding ballot that elected James Willis Nesmith, first governor of Oregon. Fifty years later, Mr. Conyers again served in the Oregon legislature.

John McFeeley, of Lebanon, Ore., one of the oldest men in the state, weighs 200 pounds and is hale and hearty despite his 96 years. He was born August 16, 1827, near Pittsburgh, Pa., and as a youth ran away from home to join the United States Marine force. He served on the U. S. S. Ohio and U. S. S. Warren during the war of 1846-48.

Robert Starkey resides at Marshfield Ore., and was 94 years old in December, 1922. He lives alone and is still quite sturdy and goes about the city with as much ease as a younger man. He complains only that his eyesight is gradually failing. Mr. Starkey was in New Orleans when the call came for volunteers in the Mexican war. He enlisted in the United States navy and served under Admiral Porter. He took part in the blockade of Vera Cruz and recalls the capture of that city after a bombardment of three days. When the war was over Mr. Starkey went to Norfolk, Va., where he was transferred to the sloop of war St. Mary, on which he made a trip around Cape Horn to Monterey, Calif., in the fall of 1848. From Monterey the vessel went to San Pedro with money for the troops stationed there, and took aboard a company of dragoons who had come over the Santa Fe trail with General Lane, who was on his way to Oregon to be governor. Mr. Starkey was discharged in San Francisco when his enlistment in the navy expired.

Malachi McCoy, 94, now a resident of Vernal, Utah, is a two-time veteran. He served in the Mexican war as a corporal, enlisting in Indiana, and was a captain in the Civil war, commanding Company A, 50th Indiana Infantry.

Benjamin Frank Tudor celebrated his 96th birthday on May 2, last, keeping open house and entertaining many guests. He played cards, read the daily papers and, without glasses, read many messages of congratulations on his last birthday anniversary. He is tall and straight and does a day's work every day on his farm, near Victor, 40 miles south of Missoula, in the Bitter Root valley, Montana. After his discharge from the army, Mr. Tudor returned to his home in Kentucky, and in 1849 started across the plains on horseback for California. He spent many years in California as a gold miner moving to the Bitter Root valley in 1863, where he has lived ever since.

WILL PLAY AMERICAN MUSIC AT ASHEVILLE

[By Associated Press]

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 29.—"All-American" music will characterize the program of the 13th biennial festival of the National Federation of Music Clubs here June 9-17, and is expected by its sponsors to prove that it is not always necessary to turn to Europe for good music, and to show that eventually America should be the music center of the world.

Two outstanding features of the festival, which will also mark the 25th anniversary of the organization, will be the appearance of a Festival Symphony Orchestra, composed of 45 first-chairmen of various symphony orchestras; and a Festival Chorus of several hundred voices. Henry Hadley, American conductor, will lead the orchestra, and Charles N. Boyd will direct the chorus.

The usual biennial contests, open to American composers to encourage the writing of musical compositions, will precede the annual convention. At the June festival there will be held also the finals in the series of biennial contests for young American-trained musical artists which are now under way in the states and districts, in voice, violin and piano. Following the tests the winners will appear in concert.

For the 800 Junior and Juvenile clubs affiliated with the Federation, a Children's day will be designated.

In the new auditorium at Montreat, 18 miles from Asheville, a vesper service will be held Sunday, June 10. A "Sunrise Sing," featuring morning chorals and odes to the sun, will be given June 13.

Before putting milk into the saucepan, boil rapidly a few spoonfuls of water (enough to just cover the bottom of the pan) and it will never burn, however fierce the fire.

SAN FERNANDO VALLEY BACKS C. T. WARDLAW

Candidate for L. A. Council from Van Nuys Is Popular

The unified effort of every community in the San Fernando valley that secured the nomination on the councilmanic ballot of Charles T. Wardlaw at the May primary is even more strenuously engaged in trying to secure his election to the city council on June 5, and through him, representation for an area that, in extent, is as large as the rest of Los Angeles combined.

The valley organizations of every description have endorsed him and are active in the fight for district representation. The suburban sections of the city, themselves interested in securing the election of a man whose attitude will not be centralized but rather general, are strong in their support.

CHARLES T. WARDLAW
Van Nuys Candidate for Los Angeles Council

The valley organizations that are waging the fight have endorsed the department of public service in its plans to secure a fair share of electric energy that will be available through a dam to be constructed by the Federal government at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado river. They have also signified their desire for improved transportation facilities in Los Angeles. Mr. Wardlaw has subscribed to both these platforms.

To the support given him at the primary by the Greater Los Angeles Councilmanic Association and the Citizens Committee of 10,000 has been added the strongest organized sentiment of Los Angeles. The Associated Chambers of Commerce, the individual Chambers, Women's clubs and other organizations of San Fernando valley have endorsed him, as have the Greater Highland Park Association, the Lincoln Heights oBard of Trade, the Los Angeles Federation of American Societies, the City Employees Club, the Echo Club, the Los Angeles Builders' exchange, the District Representation Asociation and others.

Mr. Wardlaw's unusual success in developing and managing large financial, industrial and agricultural enterprises has drawn much support to him. He is of independent means, his land and mineral holdings being extensive.

He is chairman of the board of directors of the Van Nuys branch of the California bank; president of the Van Nuys Finance Corporation, a director in the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis club, a director of the Honywood Country Club, and a member of the Jonathan and other clubs.

SEES MENACE IN CRUSHING INDIVIDUALITY OF WORKERS

MONTREAL, May 31.—The individual is the world's biggest problem, Robert B. Wolf, New York engineer and industrialist, declared today in an address on "Management Engineering in the Paper Industry" at the spring meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

"In no other period of the world's history has the group spirit found such material expression as in this twentieth-century development of corporate industry," said Mr. Wolf, who was a member of the Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry of the Federated American Engineering Societies.

"In the past men have combined into groups for productive purposes, but never before have we seen such grouping of groups and these larger groups into still larger corporate units, and the starling fact is that most of this has taken place within the lifetime of the men who are still in active charge of industry.

"What is the meaning of it all, and what is to become of the individual men in the process? This I believe to be the most momentous problem confronting modern civilization as now constituted cannot last. To crush out the individuality of the workman is fatal to human progress and it is also fatal to destroy the individuality of our manufacturing or producing units.

"The individual must be understood, and the whole problem of industry resolves itself into finding out how to enable the unit individual, the man, to become conscious of his relationship to the all-including group individual, the plant.

"The secret seems to lie in stimulating group consciousness within the organic whole of the plant by continuously recording the group's relationship to the plant on the one hand, and the man on the other, and the immediate need seems to be for the education of foremen to intelligently direct the groups.

"The recorded results of this new effort will act again as a fresh stimulus, so that continuous progress in both knowledge of process and skill in the use of his knowledge is bound to follow."

EMANCIPATION

(With apologies to the shade of Longfellow)

By HIRAM A. GRAVES
Glendale, Calif., May, 1923

Hearken to a theme, oh brothers,
To a theme of ransomed woman:
While of chivalry we're prating,
Boasting of superior manhood;
Lest our self conceit be shattered;
Lest our pride to dust be leveled.
Patiently review the history
Of the bygone generations,
When man's gallentry toward woman
Often proved but empty flattery.
Little else did he accord her.
He would compliment and daily,
Oft betraying the most trusting;
Then abandoning his victims
And their nameless little children.
Hands that man was fond of kissing
He considered good for nothing
Save dishwashing, wielding distaff,
Whirling humming wheel in spinning,
Or, perchance, to rock a cradle.
Woman's beauty won encomiums;
Subjects were of panegyric,
Epic poem, metric rhyming.
She was eulogized and petted;
Ne'er for wisdom was she lauded;
Ne'er for knowledge given credit.
Tho she was addressed with mildness,
Gross indifference was her portion.
Given seat when she was standing,
But no work when she was starving.
Chairs were proffered, but no freedom;
Hats were raised, but never wages.
Compliments were showered upon her,
Yet the law gave scant protection.
Subject to sporadic wooing,
But when won became a "chattel."
When she ventured from her doorstep
She was chaperoned severely.

Learned, prayerful, pudgy bishops
Argued long, with acrimony,
O'er the question as to whether
Woman had a soul or spirit;
Fought, debated, and contended
That a woman must be soul-less;
For they found no female angel
Mentioned in the Holy Scriptures.
She possessed no voice, nor portion
In the forming of the nations;
Yet the fate of kings and kingdoms
Rested oft in hands of woman,
Playing on the human passions
Of her royal spouse or lover;
Tho she knew no legal standing,
Ruled the hand that grasped the scepter;
Wove the pattern of its ruling
As her craft or will decreed it;
Lifting up, or wreaking ruin
As desire gave her the fancy;
Turning princes into paupers,
Elevating rags to riches
As her freakish purpose tended.

In the primal realms of Eden
Woman first began her conquest,
Offering of the tempting fruitage
For her consort's delectation.
Ever since, the truth ignoring,
Man has always danced to piping;
Danced to piping of the woman;
Nor regained his power to conquer.
Gone his skill to conquer woman.
Tho he claims the right to woo her,
It is she who does the wooing.
Should she will the man to capture,
That she will, we may be certain.
If she does not will to have him,
Fiends, nor angels, cannot turn her.
Tho man fondly may imagine
That her fortress he has captured,
It is she who has ensnared him,
Tho pretending to surrender.

Thro the agony of woman
Come we, wailing into earthlife.
By her tender ministrations
All our sufferings, all our sorrows,
All our troubles she assuages.
On the frightful field of battle
Woman's bravery is the grandest.
Flood, nor fire, nor storm dismays her
When her gentle aid is needed.
And 'tis woman's gentle pressure
Closes down the death touched eyelids.

In these times of frantic follies,
In these days of frenzied finance,
In these times of furious living,
Woman still retains composure;
Calmly seizing every vantage,
Overcoming opposition,
She advances swiftly, surely,
Towards the conquering of the Cosmos.
Woman, in this generation,
Meets man on the common level.
Gives and takes fraternal handclasp;
Takes her seat in halls of learning;
Fills high place in legislatures;
Sounds the Gospel from the pulpit;
From the bench dispenses justice.
Woman, more alive than ever,
Is to manhood far more precious
Than before she ever has been,
As she steadily advances
To her rightful throne of glory.

True, she plucked, and ate and offered
To the man, the Fruit of Knowledge;
But, as surely shall she gather
From the Tree of Life Eternal.
Man, alone, can ne'er recover
What he lost when turned from Eden.
Soul to soul must Man and Woman,
Fully equalized and balanced,
Harmonized in every atom,
Hand in hand approach the Garden.
Reaching it, her hand shall gather
And shall give the precious fruitage
To her consort, as they enter;
As the fiery sword is lifted,
And the Guardian Angel greets them;
Bids them enter in together,
Never more to know of sorrow;
As the Father reunites them
In the glory of His Kingdom.

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE YOUTH

Give him health and a job and a chance;
Teach him the spirit to try.
Let him go forth and break a lance
Out under the great blue sky.
Help him be strong for the work to do,
Bid him be honest and fair,
And in his trials, to come to you,
For courage again to dare.

What if the road be rough and steep,
And what if the way be long?
Bid him go forth the faith to keep,
And do it with a song.
For the rocks be sharp and the road be dim,
And the chasms and fords be steep,
The battle with life will strengthen him
And his soul to its purpose keep.

Bid him go forth to till the lands,
To dig in the earth and hills,
Teach him to hew with an axe in his hands,
Till the cup of his spirit fills
With the wine of life and the red and glow
Of labor and sweat and worth,
Teach him the truths of life to know,
That these are the kings of earth.

Forth to the struggle, Oh son of thine,
With all of the trials and stings,
Forth to the field and the mill and mine,
And what be the flouts and flings
Of the bitter trial or blasted hope
Tackle the thing again,
Strive and struggle and slip and grope,
But ever a man of men.

TROUT PROVES WORTHY STEED

[By Associated Press]

BUTTE, Mont., May 31.—To ride on the back of a trout, perhaps for months, with its front legs so set between the gills that all its exertions would not free them, was the unpleasant experience of a three-year-old bull frog, according to Dr. H. A. Maillet of Butte who has the freak on exhibition in his office.

The trout and its unwelcome and unwishing passenger were captured by Dr. Maillet at his country home near this city. How the frog ever got into the predicament is left to the imagination, but the two are still alive, still attached and swimming about a tank of running water in the doctor's office.

Dr. Maillet declared that apparently the trout understands the wills and ways of a bull frog enough to come to the surface occasionally to let his passenger breathe.

With the fishing season only a few days away Butte fishermen who have seen the strange exhibit say that it is a fish story which will require something to beat. Dr. Maillet said he would keep the two creatures alive as long as possible.

MINES BUREAU GETS WOLFLIN

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—H. M. Wolflin, superintendent of safety, Industrial Accident Commission, is en route to Washington, D. C., where he has been called by John Hays Hammond of the United States coal commission. Mr. Wilflin will prepare a memdoranum for the coal commission on the enforcement of safety regulations in the varicus states by state police power, and on differential insurance ratings.

Mr. Wolflin, who is on a two months' leave of absence from the California Industrial Accident Commission, will cooperate with the federal coal commission on questions relating to general safety around the mines, according to a telegram received here from E. A. Holbrook, dean of the school of mines at the Pennsylvania State College.

When taking a cup of tea upstairs to an invalid the best way to keep it hot is to fill the cup with boiling water and let it stand for a few minutes. Empty it and pour in the tea and you will find it keeps nice and hot for quite a long time.

Episcopal Brotherhood to Foregather in Chicago

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, May 31.—Arrangements are already in full swing for the reception here during September of the largest gathering of laymen of the Episcopal church to be held this year, when the fortieth anniversary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is celebrated.

Not only will every Episcopal parish in the United States be represented by men and boys, but almost every parish of this denomination in England, Scotland, Ireland, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the West Indies also will send delegates and members. The gathering is known as the International Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The organization of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was inspired by the late James L. Houghteling of this city in 1833 and from a very meagre beginning it has spread to be one of the largest organizations for men and boys in religious work in the world.

"Since its birth it has been and always will be the heart of a movement to spiritually vitalize the man and boy power of the church," said Courtenay Barber of this city, chairman of the convention committee. The national body has held 37 conferences, none of which is restricted to members of the Brotherhood, but to all church men and boys.

Electrical Experts to Meet in New York

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, May 31.—Farm electrification and the further electrification of American industries and commerce, as a means of offsetting farm labor shortage and the growing scarcity of labor resulting from prosperity coupled with restricted immigration, will be two of the many subjects coming before the forty-sixth convention of the National Electric Light Association in New York City June 4 to 8.

Progress in electrical science, research, invention and physical development also will be outlined in the reports to be presented and the discussions which will follow their presentation.

Electrical experts from all over the United States and its territorial possessions, from Canada and from foreign countries will participate in the program. Those present will include Thomas A. Edison, the father of the industry in this country, and Dr. Steinmetz, the "Wizard of Schenectady."

To brighten a shabby carpet put a teacupful of vinegar into a pail of warm water and wash the carpet with a cloth wrung out of the vinegar and water. Of course, this washing must be preceded by a careful brushing and the carpet must merely be made damp. When the whole has been rubbed over let it get quite dry before it is walked over.

If you will wash your leather chair in milk it will make it like new. Go over it but once, as more will make it look white.
